GERMANY FEELS THAT WE FAVOR GREAT BRITAIN

Post-Dispatch Man Believes That Views Would Be Modified if President Were Equally Insistent Toward England.

Official Says That Note in Similar Tone in Other Directions Would Show Impartiality.

America's Fight for Freedom of the Seas Directed Against Germany, Maximilian Harden's Belief.

By Karl H. von Wiegand, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.)
BERLIN, July 27.—Bitterest disappointment, barely suppressed resentment, indignation and a feeling that America is deliberately taking advantage of the peculiar situation the German people find themselves in to force its will upon Germany to the advantage of Great Britain—all these mark the first reception of President Wilson's note by the German press and public.

So far as views are expressed in the Berlin newspapers and by such public men as I have talked with, the note has made a bad impression here. "Less than friendly" is the mildest characterization of the note.

In a dispatch to the Post-Dispatch on June 20 I said there were rocks ahead for the relations between the countries, and another period of squalls and stress was coming which would bring to a head and cool judgment on both sides. Events are confirming that prediction. While there is no blustering there is an almost unanimous agreement that the latest American document has created a grave situation.

Officials Thinking It Over.
There is no disposition in official circles to discuss the note for publication. I was told: "We have taken the note under consideration and are thinking it over."

It has not been decided whether an answer will be made or what its nature will be, but the present disposition appears to be that Germany will answer.

There is manifest disappointment over President Wilson's rejection of a "sacred fleet" for Americans.

President Wilson's rejection of a "sacred fleet" for Americans.
Prominent statesmen have expressed concern about the reception of the note by the general public. Said one official:

"It is impossible for us to make our position, easily aroused people believe in the fairness and impartiality of America towards Germany when you speak to us in that tone and bring pressure to bear only on us, when we are asked to abandon something which in every respect is a counter-measure forced on us by England's inhuman starvation policy. When America expects itself in a similar tone in other directions the German people will believe that America is taking an impartial attitude for the freedom of the seas."

The text of the note was given to the press at 9 o'clock tonight (Monday). Thus far the papers have published only the outline and substance of the note. Virtually all the newspapers sound a note of gravity which has not been struck since the sinking of the Lusitania.

Harden Sees Partiality.
Maximilian Harden, who has not failed in his characteristic cool judgment to be just to America in its attitude toward Germany, told me that while the new note might be justified largely in principle from America's viewpoint, "It is very hard and could not be much harder for the German people in this hour." He confirmed my own impression that the note had created intense feeling and added that unfortunately he could but express conviction that America's fight for the freedom of the sea was wholly one-sided and directed only against Germany.

The very independent and liberal Berliner Tageblatt, which hitherto has taken a strong stand for the possibility of an amicable agreement and has been against those writers and papers which were opposed to conceding anything, is much hurt by President Wilson's new note and expresses very strong views on it. Capt. Persius, its naval critic and naval policy writer, who often assails the sharp and extreme views of Count Ernst von Reventlow, is stronger and more resentful in the Tageblatt than is Reventlow in the Deutsche Tages-Zeitung.

George Bernard, editor in chief of the Ullstein group of newspapers, deals with the note in a two-column signed editorial leader in the liberal Vorwaerts Zeitung. He declares the new note creates a situation the gravity of which must not be misunderstood. Bernard contends that Germany's suggestions were made in good faith; that the sentiment expressed in the German note went even beyond usual diplomatic

Submarine Has Two British Ships in Hand at Same Time

German Sank Coast Steamer, but English Patrol Boats Save the Liner Turnwell.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Capt. Humby of the British steamer Turnwell, which arrived today from Swansea, reported that after sailing from Liverpool on June 15 he encountered a German submarine 25 miles off Tuskar. The submarine fired several shots from a rapid fire at the Turnwell and the crew of the latter took to boats.

The Germans then boarded the Turnwell, Humby and his crew, and exploded several bombs in the empty hold when the British coasting steamer Trafford appeared. The submarine crew then turned their attention to the coaster, which they sank. The Turnwell, but before they could do any further damage to the steamer, patrol boats of the British fleet appeared and the submarine disappeared.

The Turnwell's crew returned to its vessel and plugged up leaks and, with all pumps working, the ship reached Milford Haven, where repairs were made. The Turnwell then continued to Swansea.

President Gives Up Golf For Official Business

Report on Sinking of Leelanaw by German Submarine Awaited by Executive.

CORNISH, N. H., July 27.—President Wilson gave up his usual morning game of golf today and was at work on official business received from Washington soon after breakfast.

Up to noon the President had not received from the State Department any official word of the sinking of the American steamer Leelanaw by a German submarine nor a copy of the latest British note on the order in council. He expected information on both subjects to arrive later.

Unofficial news that the crew of the Leelanaw was given ample warning before the steamer was sunk, was received with satisfaction at the summer White House, although the President would not commit himself as to whether the American Government would take any action.

President Has No Intention Now of Assembling Congress Unless Necessary

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Although reports were circulated today that the President was determined to call an extra session of Congress for the purpose of getting the legislation that would make possible the reorganization of the army, it is understood here that he has no such intention at the present time.

The Post-Dispatch has been informed that the President has no desire to call Congress to Washington unless there should be such a crisis in the foreign situation as to cause him to believe that the United States was to be plunged into the European war.

KANSAS BABIES TO BE CERTIFIED

They Are to Be Tested and Graded According to Definite Schedule.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 27.—Certified babies will be available in Kansas after September, announced Dr. Lydia A. Devillies, head of the State new Child Hygiene Bureau, in making public today her plan of holding a baby week in every Kansas town next fall, at which time every baby will be given a certificate of health by the State.

Babies are to be tested and graded according to a definite schedule which will include physical and mental examination. Defects will be noted and treatment suggested to restore the child to normal condition.

BRITAIN WRITING NEW NOTE TO U. S. ON NEUTRAL TRADE

Grey Cables Lansing, Asking Him to Delay Publication of Other Communication.

MOVE IS OF SIGNIFICANCE

England May Have Taken Cognizance of Communication to Berlin.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Sir Edward Grey cabled Secretary Lansing today that the British Government has in preparation another note on the order in council and asked that the note delivered yesterday be withheld from publication pending receipt of the new communication. Therefore, yesterday's note will not be published tomorrow, as had been planned.

No indication of the nature of the forthcoming note was given in Sir Edward's cable and State Department officials have no intimation. They assume, however, that it is of a supplemental nature.

The development will further delay dispatch of the American note to Great Britain on interference with commerce between the United States and neutral nations. Secretary Lansing had about finished it and it was to be sent to President Wilson at Cornish, N. H., for his approval. It will not be dispatched until the new British note has been received and considered.

Secretary Lansing said the message from London stating the new note would be here in another week.

In official quarters the development was regarded as highly significant. The belief prevailed that the last American note to Germany, with its reference to the freedom of the seas, may have influenced Great Britain to place herself on record as willing to take under consideration any new suggestions by the United States to the belligerents.

Sir Edward Grey's request that the note received yesterday be withheld was taken to mean, at all events, that a new situation had arisen on that some new proposals were about to be made by Great Britain to alleviate the effects of the order in council.

In view of the development, Secretary Lansing declined to discuss the British note already in hand, but took occasion to deny reports that cotton was about to be placed on the contraband list by Great Britain. Mr. Lansing declared there had been no discussion whatsoever, between the State Department and the British embassy, as to the British Foreign Office in London relative to a change in the non-contraband status of cotton.

ASTRONOMER PREDICTS BIG SUNSPOT FOR THURSDAY

Brother Herbert of Christian Brothers College Studying Effects of Phenomena Upon Weather.

Brother Hubert, Christian Brothers College astronomer and physicist, who has been amusing himself in the vacation months by studying sun spots and keeping tab on the weather, said this morning that perhaps the largest sun spot of the present year would be visible Thursday. Of course, it cannot be seen with the unaided eye, but a telescope properly equipped, will reveal it. It will be a mere blot—4,000 miles across—on the sun's surface.

Brother Hubert has observed that every time there is great sunspot activity there is a marked change of the weather. He is trying to determine what influence the sun spots have on the earth's magnetic field and whether it has much to do with these fluctuations.

If they have such an influence, the astronomer thinks we should have murky, unsettled conditions the rest of this week and that we should have of thunderstorms and possibly windstorms by Saturday or Sunday.

EIGHT MEN KILLED BY GAS EXPLOSION IN ILLINOIS MINE

15 Others Injured in Accident at Christopher's 3 Mining and 225 Escape.

CHRISTOPHER, Ill., July 27.—Eight men were killed, 15 were injured, 3 are missing and 225 escaped when a part of the east mine of the United Coal Mining Co.'s works here was wrecked by a gas explosion 400 feet below the surface today. It was at first thought that a large number of men were trapped in the mine.

Rescue wearing smoke helmets descended into the mine to endeavor to get the men out. News of the explosion spread through the town and the shafts were soon surrounded by frantic women and crying children.

The mine is one of the largest in Franklin County. About 500 men are employed in the section where the explosion occurred, but many of them were so far from the center of the explosion that they were in no danger.

All of the miners were summoned to the surface soon after the explosion and many joined in the work of rescue and search for the dead.

Where the Eastland Lies in the Chicago River

The scene is one of the busiest spots in downtown Chicago. The Clark street bridge, below which the Eastland lies, is one of the main traffic arteries from the populous north side to the loop district which is only a block distant from the docks. Skirting the docks is the produce center of the city.

CONSUL BEGINS INVESTIGATION OF LEELANAW SINKING

Crew of American Ship Destroyed by German Submarine Sent to Dundee.

LONDON, July 27.—All the crew of the American steamer Leelanaw are expected to reach Dundee today when it will be possible to obtain a full account of the sinking of the vessel by a German submarine off the Orkney Islands Sunday night. The episode has created widespread discussion in England, coming as it did almost coincidentally with the delivery of the American note to Germany.

Only meager accounts of the destruction of the Leelanaw have been received, but it is clear the submarine gave the commander of the steamer ample warning, even permitting the crew to collect part of their effects before taking them aboard the underwater craft, which then, through the combined use of shell fire and bombs, sent the vessel, which was carrying a contraband cargo of flax from Archangel to Belfast, to the bottom.

The London evening papers, in telling of the incident, employ in some cases suggestive captions, such as "an unfriendly act."

E. H. Dennison, the American Consul at Dundee, sent the Associated Press the following message: "No details yet except crew landed at Kirkwall this morning. Have ordered them sent to Dundee on tomorrow's boat."

The Standard thinks the incident is bound to bring a crisis between the United States and Germany, especially in view of the sinking of the Leelanaw and the sinking of the American ship William P. Frye, when the crew will appear to American sentiment very much like a deliberate defiance of President Wilson's protest. The newspaper adds it realizes the United States will keep out of the European conflict if it possibly can, but says a rupture of relations with Germany seems inevitable.

The editorial concludes by advising the British Government to ally friction with the United States by declaring cotton contraband and by rescinding the irritating orders in council.

Procedure Likely to Be the Same as in the Case of the "Frye."

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Details of the sinking of the American steamship Leelanaw by a German submarine were awaited today by officials of the United States Government, pending which they were reserved in their comments.

A full account of the destruction of the Leelanaw is not expected until the American Consul at Dundee, Scotland, has completed his investigation. The inquiry was to begin there today with the arrival of the vessel's crew.

It is probable that the procedure will be the same as in the case of the American ship William P. Frye, when the United States disputed Germany's right to destroy American ships even if carrying contraband. Officials here are of the opinion that the Leelanaw should have been immune from attack and that Germany in reality had again violated the Prussian-American treaty of 1858.

MAN'S ARREST SAID TO BE CONNECTED WITH BIG SWINDLE

Charles Seifert Jr. Taken in Chicago and Put in Jail in St. Louis.

A man who calls himself Charles Seifert Jr., and who was arrested in Chicago yesterday by Postoffice inspectors, is held for the United States Government in the city jail. Neither Read nor District Attorney Oliver would give any information today as to the purpose of his arrest.

In Federal circles it was reported that the arrest has something to do with a Government investigation into a $25,000 swindle in New York, when, it is said, duplicates of United States gold bonds belonging to John D. Rockefeller were used.

Seifert says he is a printer, but he formerly drove a jitney bus and lived at 281 Lafayette avenue. Two or three weeks ago postoffice inspectors asked the police to look for him in connection with a suspected misuse of the mails. They told the police they might find him in a hospital.

All hospitals in the city were visited but the man was not found. The authorities learned, however, that he and three other men had made an auto trip to Chicago. They were found there and placed under arrest. Seifert alone being returned to St. Louis.

About all that can be learned of the supposed bond swindle is that the duplicates of United States bonds were printed and sold, some of them coming to St. Louis. It has been said that private detectives employed by Rockefeller and the Federal inspectors have been searching for the four men for more than a month.

A few days ago an inspector removed all of Seifert's belongings from the Lafayette avenue house.

ITALIAN GENERAL KILLED IN BATTLE ON ISONZO FRONT

UDINE, Italy, July 27.—Gen. Antonio Cantore has been killed in battle on the Isonzo front. He is the first officer of that rank lost by Italy. He won a general's commission by the heroism he displayed during operations in Tripoli.

Gen. Cantore had charge of operations which resulted in the occupation of Ala and other villages near Rovereto in Trentino Armed only with a riding whip he directed his men from the most exposed position, declaring he would be ashamed to run less risk than his soldiers.

Park Policeman Weds Couple.

EVANSTON, Ill., July 27.—The Rev. E. G. S. Burdette, formerly pastor of the Twelfth Avenue Baptist Church here, now a special policeman at a local park, while on duty today was approached by William Armstrong and Miss Lora Duncan, a well known young couple here. He was asked to marry them. The ceremony was performed in the presence of several persons who were enjoying a picnic in the park.

SECRETARY REDFIELD IN CHICAGO FOR INQUIRY INTO THE EASTLAND DISASTER

Federal, State and City Investigations, in Addition to Coroner's Inquest, Get Under Way—Threatened Clash Averted.

CHICAGO, July 27.—With the taking of testimony by the Coroner's jury, the first open investigation into the capsizing of the steamer Eastland started today. At the same time investigations were being conducted by the State grand jury, the Federal authorities and the City Council. The State Public Utilities Commission issued an announcement that it would not conduct an investigation as it had planned, the reason given being that the matter was fully covered by other investigators.

Secretary of Commerce Redfield arrived today and took up what he promised would be a thorough inquiry. A short time later attorneys from the United States District Attorney's office visited all of the men held in custody as witnesses and obtained statements from them, at the same time subpoenaing them to appear before the Federal grand jury, which will meet Thursday.

Secretary Redfield said he welcomed the most searching investigation possible and that if a Federal inspector were sent to Chicago, he would be interested in it.

State's Attorney Hoyne also was active in his investigation, and the cooperation that he received today from both the Federal authorities and the police indicated that the threatened strained relations among these three sets of investigators had turned into complete harmony.

Majority of Passengers Tomorrow.

Hoyne said today that he was confident the boat was overloaded. "From all accounts there were scores of children on the boat, only part of whom can be accounted for by the ticket stubs," he said.

The funerals of those drowned continued to be held today, although the great majority will be buried tomorrow. The work of taking the bodies from the river continued with unabated energy. The bridges around the scene of the disaster were thrown open to the pedestrians this morning, but the order was soon rescinded owing to the enormous crowd that gathered.

At noon today the official list of dead and missing was:

Identified dead, 22; unidentified dead, five. Missing Western Electric Co. list, 33. Total, 120.

Not more than 40 bodies remain in the hull of the Eastland, according to William Demau, a diver who is working on the wrecked boat. "A strong undercurrent has swept a large number of bodies away and they are now floating in the river or the drainage canal," Demau said.

At the opening of the inquest Coroner Hoffman announced that its object was to ascertain the cause of the disaster and place the blame where it belongs.

"It is the intention to make a fair, thorough and impartial investigation," said the Coroner.

Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Lake Seamen's Union, who had been quoted as denouncing the United States inspection service of lake boats, would, it was said, be a witness both before the Coroner's jury and the grand jury. Redfield Issues Statement.

Secretary Redfield, in a statement issued today, not only denied that steamboat inspectors were appointed at the instance of steamboat owners, as had been charged, but also denied that Olander ever brought to his attention the condition of the Eastland.

Secretary Redfield, in his statement, added:

"On my arrival in Chicago this morning I met D. M. Hoover, deputy supervising inspector-general of the Steamboat Inspection Service, and Capt. H. Westcott, supervising inspector of the Eighth District. Both have been notified to appear before the State grand jury. I instructed them to say to that grand jury and any properly constituted authority that the Department of Commerce and the steamboat inspection service have nothing to fear or conceal; that it desires the fullest possible light thrown upon every detail of its work and organization that anyone anywhere may see fit to make."

"They were told to lay everything in their possession and knowledge before the State grand jury or any other legal body desiring information. They were instructed to say to the State grand jury that I will willingly appear before any body to give them any information in my possession."

"They also were instructed to tell the State grand jury that since the local inspectors at Grand Haven, Mich., who inspected the Eastland were possibly outside the jurisdiction of the State of Illinois I would at once order them here for examination by the State grand jury if that body desires it done."

"I also instructed them to say that the supervising inspector at Cleveland who had the vessel under his care for some years and is possibly outside the State jurisdiction, will be summoned here if the State grand jury or any other body or person having authority wishes it."

Tells of Alleged "Arrangement."

State's Attorney Hoyne declared that Capt. Pederson of the Eastland told him that Federal sanction for increasing the boat's carrying capacity without change in construction was "arranged," and that he (Pederson) was told to go to Grand Haven, Mich., and get the certificate.

State's Attorney Hoyne stated this morning that, from all accounts, there were probably more than 3700 persons on the Eastland when she turned over.

"I have obtained the stubs of 2550 tickets, in round numbers, collected at the gangway," said Hoyne. "All children under 8 years of age were not counted, and there were many of these."

"Of all children between 5 and 12 years, two were allowed to go on southeast of the Eastland when she turned over."

French Submarine Destroyed by a German U Boat in Dardanelles

BERLIN, July 27, by wireless to Sayville, N. Y.

THE French submarine Mariotte was destroyed by a German submarine, on July 26, in the narrows of the Dardanelles, according to a dispatch from Constantinople to the Morning Freiheit. Thirty-one members of the French submarine's crew were captured.

The narrow where this first recorded engagement between German submarines took place is about midway in the Dardanelles Straits between the Aegean Sea and the Sea of Marmara. They are 15 miles from the entrance to the Straits.

The French submarine Mariotte was built at Cherbourg. In 1911, the vessel displaced 615 tons when submerged and was 215.7 feet long. She was fitted with six torpedo tubes and was capable of traveling 10 knots an hour on the surface and 10 knots when below.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, July 27.—The magnitude of the German enveloping movement in the eastern field now is absorbing the attention of the British officials and public. The latest reports show that Gen. von Buelow's 30,000 cavalry have turned southward from Riga and are within 10 miles of the railway connecting Petrograd with Warsaw.

In this way the northern German line is closing in on the main northern railway artery to the Russian capital, while the southern army similarly is approaching the main southern artery running to Odessa.

The Times declares human history can show no parallel to the tremendous extent of this enveloping movement which, it says, involves Russia and the western allies, comparing with Russia's resistance to a Mongolian invader.

Danger to Railway System.
The Times believes the operations are a real danger not alone to Warsaw, but to the whole system of railway defenses of which the city is the center, and that it now is apparent that the German army is planning to envelop the entire Russian army in this region.

The newspaper points out that the fall of Warsaw will have a grave significance for the West, as it will mean that Russia's power to resume a successful offensive will have been indefinitely postponed, and that the principal bases for offensive operations will be in the hands of Germany.

The latest Petrograd official statement says that the Germans have been driven back but the German army is battering at the advanced defenses of Novo Georgievsk. Assaults against the advanced fortifications of Ivanogorod also have been successfully repulsed, while a terrific battle still is in progress on almost the entire front between the Vlas and the Bug Rivers.

7000 Russians Captured.
Today's official statement from Berlin speaks of progress in the east as follows:

"An attack from Mitau was repulsed between Posen, south of Mitau and the Niemen River, we are closely following the retreating enemy."

"Russian attempts yesterday to push back our troops advancing across the Narva River by a great simultaneous attack from the line of Gdovorovo (east of Rostov), Wysskow and Serok (south of Pskov) completely failed. We captured 230 Russians and 13 machine guns. To the east and southeast of Rostov, our troops are pursuing the defeated enemy who advance from an eastern direction. Fighting for the front southeast of Pskov, is proceeding."

"The situation before Novo Georgievsk and Warsaw is unchanged."

"North of Hrubieszow, we started the enemy from several villages, capturing 200 Russians, among them 10 officers."

SUBMARINES SINK 9 FISHING BOATS

LONDON, July 27.—Apparently determined to demoralize the British fish supply as much as possible, two German submarines have appeared suddenly among the fishing fleet off the north coast of Scotland and by shell fire sunk nine trawlers.

In each case in spite of a vigorous shell fire from the German underwater boats, the crews of the fishermen escaped without injury, although the mer of the Honoria and the crew of the Sutton drifted in their open boats for 40 and 45 hours respectively before being picked up. All the men were landed safely today. Many other fishing vessels have been forced to take refuge in northern harbors.

WARSHIPS SHELL ITALIAN TOWNS

ROME, July 27.—Certain light Austrian cruisers and four Austrian torpedo boat destroyers at dawn today bombarded several points on the Adriatic coast between Senigallia, 15 miles west-northwest of Ancona, and Pesaro. At the same time several shells were thrown into the villages of Fano and Senigallia.

At the same hour two hydroaeroplanes dropped bombs on Ancona. Neither bombardment killed or wounded anyone and damage inflicted was slight.

Battle Along Isonzo "Most Frightful" of the War.

BERLIN, via London, July 27.—The battle between the Italians and Austrians along the Isonzo River is described by the correspondent in the Tyrol of the Lokal Anseiger as the "most frightful and most frightful of the war."

The great struggle has lasted a week, the correspondent says, without any decision having been reached. The principal Italian onslaught has been directed against the Dobner Plateau, where the artillery fire exceeds in intensity that of the battles at Tarnow and Gorlice, in Galicia.

U. S. Note Unfair, General Feeling of the Germans

courtesy in its friendly spirit; that Germany has conceded everything that it can possibly concede.

Charge Unfairness.

A recurring note, charging unfairness in America's alleged manifest partiality and one-sided attitude in this and other notes, in contrast with her attitude toward Great Britain and indifference toward England's violation of international law in blockade, has been struck everywhere. This alleged partiality is commended on the great bitterness in every discussion of the note I have heard in responsible quarters.

"Delighted, of course," said one official with cutting sarcasm. "It is another proof of your much vaunted square deal for all, of your insistence upon your rights against one nation but utter disregard of your rights when these rights are violated by the other, and that in what you call American sense of justice."

Were I to sum up the reception of the note in words, it would be, "hard, bitter and unfriendly." It is undeniable that there is a deep undercurrent of quiet but intense bitterness created by the note, which in some quarters is resolving into the firm conviction that America's unfriendliness is a factor which will have to be reckoned with.

Present Fire-Up to Subside.

My personal opinion, based on knowledge of the situation here and of the temper, character and mood of the men who have the responsibility, is that the present fire-up will subside and will be replaced by calm deliberation before any answer or action is decided upon. Also that the Government will do everything possible, until forced by the temper of the people to prevent a break.

I believe the Government will see the wisdom, for the time being, of adapting itself to circumstances.

Should President Wilson be equally insistent on American rights at sea toward Great Britain, it undoubtedly will go far to modify or remove some of the views held here now.

"Friendly relations will be maintained," was the parting remark made to me by one of the highest officials of Germany.

DISCUSSION ENDED, SOME OF GERMAN OFFICIALS THINK

By Associated Press.

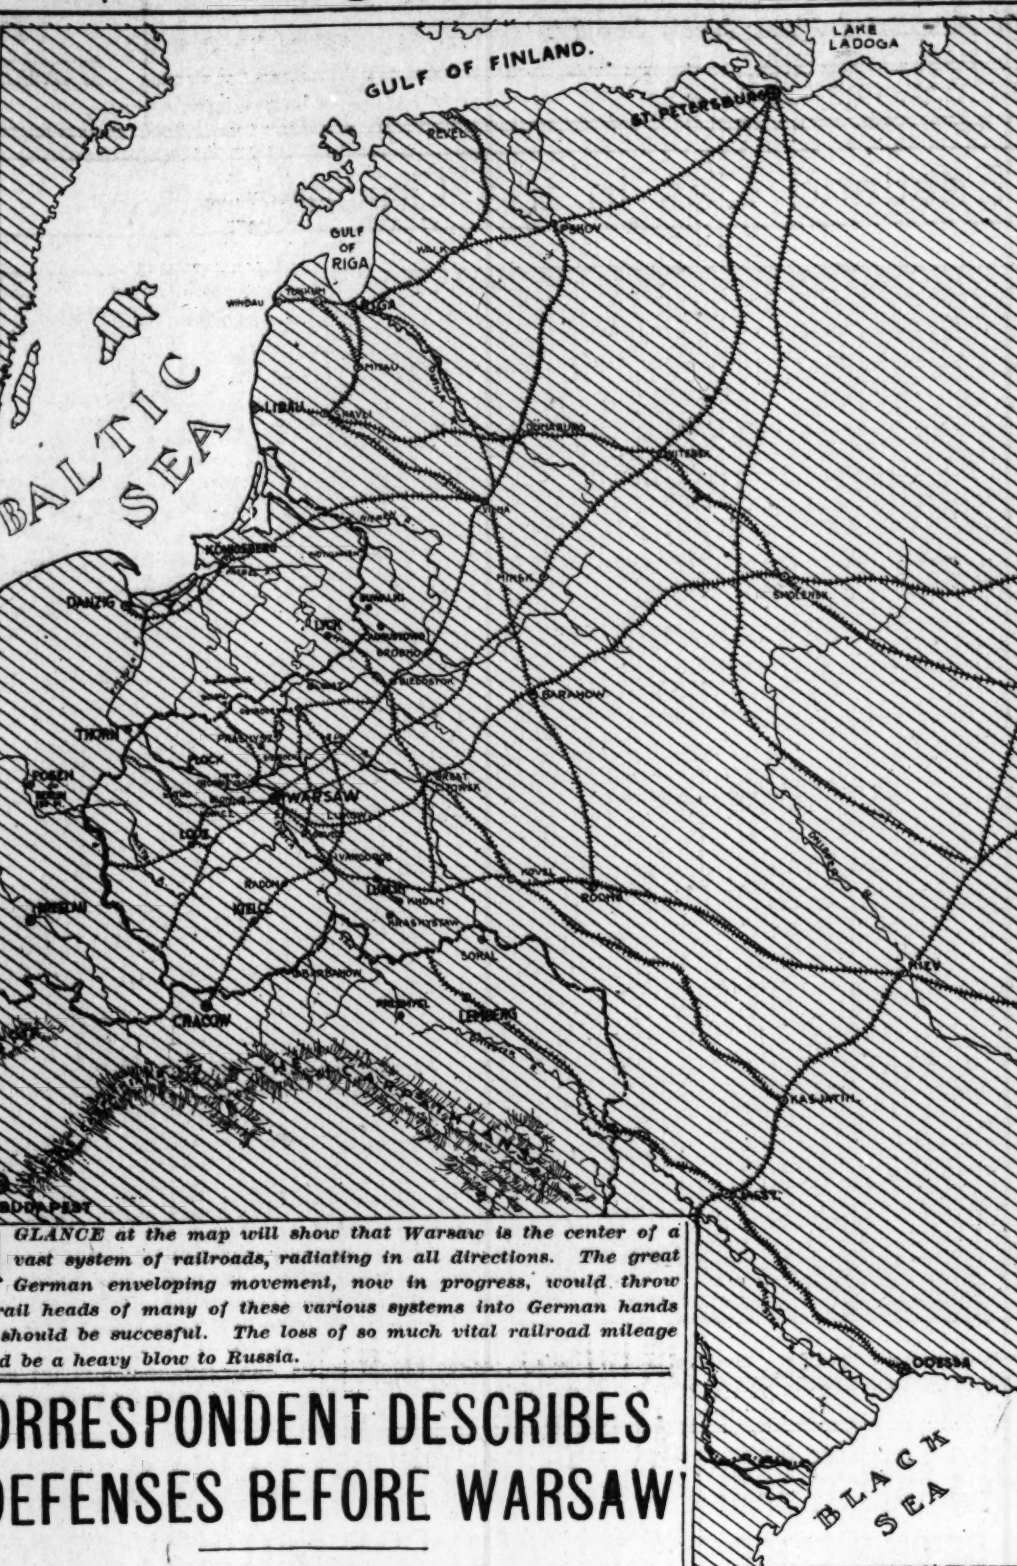

BERLIN, via London, July 27.—Imperial Chancellor Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg yesterday told the Reichstag that the German Government's attitude toward the American communication is likely to be made known before the Chancellor's return to Berlin. No discussion of the note has taken place at the Foreign Office, and the question whether any reply whatever to the American communication will be made seems in the meantime to be unsettled.

Some officials are inclined to believe the American note closes the diplomatic discussions most thoroughly.

Suggestion of Arbitration.

Others think a reply of some sort will be made by Germany and the reference

Map Showing the Railroads of Russia

GLANCE at the map will show that Warsaw is the center of a vast system of railroads, radiating in all directions. The great German enveloping movement, now in progress, would throw the rail heads of many of these various systems into German hands if it should be successful. The loss of so much vital railroad mileage would be a heavy blow to Russia.

CORRESPONDENT DESCRIBES DEFENSES BEFORE WARSAW

CHICAGO, July 27.—John F. Bass, in the Daily News, says: According to reports from Russia, the Russians have withdrawn to their last line of defense before Warsaw. These defenses are called the Bloniec-Grodek line. This is half way between Warsaw and the old line of defense on the Buzza and Rawka rivers, on which the Russians and Germans have been fighting without material advantage on either side since Dec. 19.

The new line at Bloniec is about 15 miles from the city. It was constructed by the Russians during the winter and was just being completed when I left Russia. It was not built by soldiers, but by Polish laborers employed by the Russians at 75 cents a day. The line runs from the curve of the Vistula north of Warsaw at the fortress of Novo Georgievsk, south through the town of Bloniec, then south to the town of Grodek, then southeast to a point of the Vistula River virtually at the fortress of Ivango. It is about 80 versts (50 miles) long.

Last Defensive Position.

This line constitutes the last defensive position of the Russians west of the Vistula River. I have been over part of the line and in places which I visited it consisted of six distinct lines of trenches, one behind another from 200 to 300 yards apart. These trenches were constructed with the utmost care and were pronounced by the foreign military observers who accompanied me the best constructed trenches they had even seen. They are far better than the original defenses of the Russians on the Vistula and Rawka rivers.

The trenches are connected by sunken passageways in different places. These afford an opportunity for the troops to retire from trench to trench. There are elaborate positions of barbed wire and entanglements on wooden posts. Some of these entanglements project high above the surface of the ground; others are of the question of indemnification for the American lives lost to arbitration will perhaps be suggested. This suggestion was under consideration during the drafting of the earlier notes, but, if decided upon, will almost certainly not be put into operation immediately. One factor in this determination is the desire to await the outcome of the negotiations with England and regarding interference with American trade. The outcome of this dispute, it is believed, is not likely to affect the general German policy regarding submarines, but the tone of the American note to Great Britain will be taken as a guide in interpreting the latest note to Germany. Officials believe this is decided by the note and not calculated to aid in the settlement of the German-American difficulties.

See Rights of Neutral.

Prof. Eduard Hellforn, an authority on international law, commenting in an article in Der Tag on the American note to Germany, says: "The American note must produce indignation and great irritation. President Wilson's contention that American citizens may travel where their interests upon the high seas call them is absolutely untenable."

"International law unconditionally acknowledges that neutrals do not possess absolute freedom of travel on the high seas in war time. The Lusitania case concerns not a neutral ship, but a hostile ship of which there were strong suspicions of her being turned into an auxiliary cruiser at any moment."

Submarine Methods.

"President Wilson speaks of a new and unexpected method of naval warfare and the May note acknowledged the impossibility of submarines detaining hostile ships. A necessary consequence is the destruction of such vessels. Instead, President Wilson demands that Germany abandon the use of her most useful weapon to allow some Americans to travel on the British ships instead of being satisfied with taking passage on American, Dutch, Swedish, Norwegian or Danish ships."

The comment of the principal provincial newspapers agrees with that of the Berlin press, that the American note is entirely unsatisfactory and leaves Germany no alternative to continuing her submarine warfare against hostile commerce, regardless of consequences unless 'Great Britain, as a result of the forthcoming note from Washington sees fit to change her illegal blockade policy.'

one ticket. Bodies rescued show that many children of this age went on the boat.

"Furthermore, there were 70 members of the crew and there was an orchestra of at least half a dozen men."

Listed as Dead, but Alive.

A few gleams of brightness came through the gloom of the Eastland tragedy today when several persons listed among the dead and missing proved to be alive and well.

Miss Mary Mazurawski called up Coroner Hoffman on the telephone to say she was not dead. She started on the excursion Saturday but, after noticing how crowded the Eastland was, decided to go aboard the steamer Theodore Roosevelt.

Eddie Gunderson and Mrs. Mary Gunderson, whose names were given among the identified dead, also reported themselves safe. A number of others who had been listed as missing were found to be safe.

Manager's Accident Theory.

William H. Hull, general manager of the company which owns the Eastland, advances the theory that the vessel was overturned by the pulling of a tug that had been engaged to tow it to open water.

"My theory is that the boat was resting on the bottom of the river," he said. "When the tug pulled, over the stern. The river probably was not deep enough at that point for the Eastland. We have plenty of water at our own dock, but perhaps the river had filled in at the place she was docked Saturday."

"My information is that a rear line was fast and that it pulled off the cap of the piling when the tug pulled. When the piling gave way, the tug pulled over the boat in a hurry. If that theory is not right, I have not the slightest idea of what caused the accident. The boat was safe at the time."

Statement by Customs Collector.

Robert H. McCreary, Deputy Collector of Customs, who, with two inspectors, counted the passengers as they boarded the Eastland, declared it was impossible that 2800 or more persons boarded the ship. He also said it was "false and ridiculous" for State's Attorney Hoynes to state that children were not counted.

He said that the 2500 ticket stubs seized by State's Attorney Hoynes included some of the tickets taken from passengers intended for the steamer Petoskey, another of the excursion ships.

Says Rebate Was Offered.

The State's Attorney asserted that this correspondence disclosed the fact that the steamer company had advised those in charge of the picnic that the more tickets sold the greater would be the rebate paid to the employees' organization.

7 tickets were to be sold to employees of the Western Electric Co. for 75 cents at the factory or $1 at the wharf. According to the State's Attorney, the letters he took showed that there would be a rebate of one-third on all tickets over 400 and something less on those above 2500.

Complaint had already been made by several employees of the Western Electric Co. that they had been almost compelled to purchase tickets for the excursion for fear the Eastern Lake and other would discriminate against them if they failed to go on the excursion. The picnic to Michigan City has been an annual affair, and the men said employees who refused to buy tickets were given years had been discharged, although probably without the sanction of the executives of the company.

A house at 2801 South Koln avenue has not been entered since the Eastland capsized. Two family consisting of seven persons, lived in the house, and all are either dead or missing. A wagon drove to the residence with two bodies, but there was no one there to receive them.

Insurance men estimate that between 50 and 75 percent of those who died on the Eastland carried policies, the average amount being $300. They say $200,000 will be paid this week to families of those drowned. Several of the skilled workers of the Western Electric Co. carried policies of $500. Several Chicago representatives of the insurance companies have omitted the customary red tape and have started to pay the claims.

Other Ships Unsafe, He Says.

William Olander, secretary of the Lake Seamen's Union, said today that there were many other ships on the Great Lakes as dangerous as the Eastland because of faulty construction. He said the Eastland was not properly designed to be stable and that the water ballast system was not the main fault. He charged that Eastern States inspectors under Capt. Charles H. Westcott of Detroit, chief of the Lake District, had played into the hands of the ship owners at the expense of sailors and passengers. He said tickets were given by the fact that it ships passed by the inspectors had sunk in the Great Lakes since 1905, several of them taking all on board to death.

This statement and others of a similar nature caused the investigators to decide to look into the conditions of all vessels sailing from Chicago Harbor.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

UPPER DECK WAS WORST CROWDED ON THE EASTLAND

No Rush Across This Deck Before Boat Overturned, Says First Inquest Witness.

CHICAGO, July 27.—Taking of testimony at the Coroner's inquest into the cause of the Eastland disaster was begun today. Members of the crew of the steamer were brought to the inquest under guard of policemen.

The first witness was Robert Moore, a passenger. Moore said he arrived at the Eastland at 7 o'clock in the morning and was on the boat when it overturned. He was asked by Coroner Hoffman to describe what he saw.

"As I went on board I saw a great quantity of water rushing out of a pipe at the side of the boat. The first sign of listing I saw at about 7:15. I was at the rail on the second deck and the refrigerator in the bar tipped over. It was either 10 or 15 minutes before the boat began listing badly until it overturned."

"There was ample time, I think, to have emptied the boat had the warning been given. There was no warning. When the boat went over I was thrown into the water and was rescued with a number of others."

The witness said that all the decks were crowded, particularly the upper deck, and declared positively that there was no rush across the deck before the boat overturned.

"There was no excitement," said the witness, "until the list became dangerous."

Over 7000 Tickets Sold.

The second witness was Daniel W. Gee, who was one of the committee of the Western Electric Co. employees which arranged for five steamers to carry the excursionists to Michigan City. The contract between the Indiana Transportation Co. and the Employees' Committee was read into the records. Gee said that 6900 full fare tickets were sold at $1 each and several hundred half fare tickets. The contract called for a rebate of 50 cents a ticket on all tickets in excess of 4000.

"I noticed the Eastland was listing but not more than I had often seen in other boats," said Gee. "I did not see the boat capsize as I was at another part of the dock at the time."

Gee said children under 5 years of age were to be carried free but that no list was kept of the children. One adult ticket was honored for two children, he said.

Walter K. Greenbaum, manager of the Indiana Transportation Co., told of chartering the Eastland from the St. Joseph-Chicago Steamship Co. for the Western Electric Co. excursion.

"If a boat was loaded to capacity and the crowd surged to one side, would it cause the vessel to list?" asked Coroner Hoffman.

"Yes," was the reply. "We have guarded against that listing on our boats by placing benches through the center of the boat and distributing the passengers so as to minimize that danger."

State's Attorney Hoynes asked: "Do you think that any boat that carries water for ballast and not simply for trimming purposes should carry passengers?"

"Yes, under proper circumstances," replied Mr. Greenbaum.

MAYOR TELLS WHY ST. LOUIS SHOULD ANNEX SUBURBS

Says Boston Has Taken In 16,000 Population in Effort to Be Fourth City.

Speakers at the St. Louis Advertising Club's luncheon, in the Majestic Hotel today, advocated a campaign to annex suburban territory to St. Louis, in time to test the benefits of the added population for the 1920 census. The speakers were W. S. Donaldson, president of the club, Mayor Kiel, George S. Johns, Frank M. Curlee and Charles A. Stix.

The Mayor said Boston had added 16,000 to its population by annexing a suburban district, and that in this way Boston hoped to crowd St. Louis out of fourth place in the 1920 census. He mentioned also the growth of Cleveland, Los Angeles and Detroit, and said that, if St. Louis should lose her relative census rank, the loss could never be explained.

What City Offers.

The Mayor then told what St. Louis had to offer to the suburban communities, in order to get them to approve the plan. He said the city's public buildings, waterworks, parks and playgrounds, and other municipal assets were worth $50,000,000 to $55,000,000, and the city's bonded indebtedness is but $24,000,000, leaving a balance of $26,000,000 or more in the city's favor, in which the annexed communities would share.

He spoke of the water, light and sewage questions, and said that if St. Louis will go to the annexation movement in earnest, and not in the easy-going way in which it undertook the Parkway campaign, the movement will succeed. Johns, who is a resident of the county, told in a humorous vein of the lack of city comforts there, and said that the great present need was a system of rapid transit to the suburbs. He considered the annexation movement a timely and proper one, but said the city's great need was free communication with all surrounding places, particularly a cheap transportation connection with East St. Louis.

He read a letter signed by E. C. Jenkins, saying the Shrewsbury Park Improvement Association would co-operate in the annexation movement.

Change in Law Discussed.

Curlee spoke of the legal requirements for annexation, and said that, in his opinion, an amendment to the State Constitution would be required. This would mean a long campaign, he said, but the work of building up annexation sentiment need not wait for the adoption of a constitutional amendment. He said he believed something like the borough system would have to be adopted, to make it possible to use a different tax rate for the new and old parts of the city, and to give the newer parts some local self-government. As the present State Constitution does not provide for such a system, he believed amendment would be necessary.

"TRUST'S" BREAD OUTPUT DAILY PUT AT 200,000 LOAVES

Independents Testify at Ouster
Hearing That They Produce
Only 125,000.

STATE CLOSES ITS CASE

Defense Is Refused Request for Postponement of Several Weeks.

Assistant Attorney-General Ewing closed the State's case in the St. Louis "Bread Trust" ouster hearing at the Planters Hotel this morning, with the announcement that he wished to reserve the right to introduce at the next hearing some statements of independent bakers as to the amount of bread produced by the various bakeries in the city. He said he wanted to effect the introduction of the American Bakery Co. officials, yesterday estimated the company's output at 150,000 loaves daily, and the independent output at 225,000 loaves. George Manewal, an independent baker, in his testimony, reversed these figures, and estimated the output of the "Bread Trust" at more than 200,000 loaves daily and the combined output of all the other bakeries at about 125,000 loaves. The Assistant Attorney-General said he hoped by the final statement he will introduce, to show the exact figures on the output.

Postponement Is Refused. Commissioner Ewing refused the permission, asked by counsel for the "Bread Trust," to postpone further proceedings in the case for four or five weeks. Sam B. Jeffries, of counsel for the American company, yesterday estimated the output of the State's case, said the defense was in doubt whether or not to call witnesses.

Jeffries asked permission to file a demurrer and reserve the right to call witnesses until such time as the testimony taken during the last 10 days can be transcribed. The Assistant Attorney-General said that this would require four or five weeks, and possibly more. Commissioner Ewing said he would not consent to such delay. He said he intended to present his case to the Supreme Court in October. An adjournment until Thursday was finally agreed upon. The defense then may call witnesses or stand upon a demurrer.

The Commissioner agreed that if the defense wished, it could introduce statements from retail dealers regarding their knowledge of the American company's organization, and copies of advertising matter circulated by the company, without the calling of witnesses.

Oral Arguments Ordered. The Commissioner added that before he makes his report will be heard upon oral arguments by counsel. "I hope your gentlemen will be able to explain this trust business to me," he added. Assistant Attorney-General Ewing and counsel for the American Bakery Co. held several long conferences yesterday. These gave rise to rumors that the company had made some proposal to the State which might bring about some form of settlement. After a brief afternoon session the hearing was adjourned until Thursday. Later counsel conferred again and decided to resume the hearing today, as originally planned.

Morris Freund, a salesman for the Manewal Bread Co., one of the large bakeries outside the American Bakery Co., testified to his belief that all the independent bakeries are losing money at present. He testified that all are carrying heavy mortgages upon their property. The seven companies comprised in the American Bakery Co. are making money, he said, adding to their plants and paying high salaries to officials.

1500 STRIKERS ARE BACK AT WORK IN THE OIL PLANTS

NEW YORK, July 27.—About 1500 of the men who have been on strike for several days returned to work today in the plants of the Standard Oil Co. and the Tidewater Oil Co. in Bayonne, N. J.

Major Pierre Garvin and Sheriff Kinkead declared that the strike was broken, that by tomorrow all of the strikers would be back at work and that several hundred guards who have been protecting the plants could be removed. The Sheriff said he was positive an increase in pay would be granted to the employees before the end of the week.

About 5000 men have been idle since the strike began in the plant of the Standard Oil Co. As a result of this strike, and of disorders in which several of the strikers and their sympathizers were shot and killed, employees of the Tidewater Oil Co. quit work. It was said they did so unwillingly.

MRS. KIELY LEAVES CITY

Commissioner Merchant's Wife to Return for Divorce Suit, Friends Say. It was learned today that Mrs. Robert M. Kiely, wife of a commission merchant, who vanished from her home at 3146 Waterman avenue last week, has been staying with a Miss Baum at 3820A Laclede avenue. Mrs. Kiely was not at the Laclede avenue flat this morning. Miss Baum, who refused to give her first name, said Mrs. Kiely left St. Louis yesterday, but would return at the proper time to prosecute a divorce suit filed by her May 28.

Making a Good Impression. Is self-preservation. Observing men find the merchants' announcements appearing in the Post-Dispatch every Friday keep them informed on what men should wear to be neatly dressed. It is economical, too.

Mrs. Hapgood is president of the Stage Society, and also is interested in and has written a great deal about woman suffrage.

GRAND JURY TO BE TOLD OF VIOLATIONS OF LID LAW AT LAKE

County Prosecutor Also Will Complain Against Apparent
Laxity of Officials.

Prosecuting Attorney Ralph of St. Louis County, announced today that he would go before the grand jury next Tuesday with evidence of violations of the Sunday liquor law at Creve Coeur Lake resorts, and with a complaint against certain township and county officers for failure to enforce the Sunday law.

Ralph sent an expedition to the lake Sunday to purchase beer as evidence. Two of his assistants, Floyd W. Brooks and M. T. Israel, and Justice Rowe of Kirkwood, were buying beer in Julius Tschamker's saloon when Deputy Constable Clarence Campbell of Bonhomme Township, who is also a watchman for the United Railways Co., appeared.

Within a few minutes, according to Brooks, all the beer in sight disappeared and the investigators could not buy any more. Campbell told reporters at Clayton yesterday that he supposed Brooks would accuse him of having "tipped off" the saloon keeper.

Not interested in Lid Law. "I didn't do it," he said, "but a man from Clayton did. I am not looking for violations of the lid law. I am watching out for fights and pickpockets. If I knew that thieves were working around the lake and that saloons were selling liquor on Sunday, I would go after the thieves and when I got them I would look for more thieves."

The prosecuting attorney learned of Campbell's remarks and expressed his satisfaction. He said that if his assistants were able to find violations of the liquor law the regularly constituted deputy sheriffs and constables should be able to do the same. He hopes the grand jury will take action which will fix the responsibility for laxity in enforcing the lid law.

The prosecuting attorney's office has information that there are "cappers" in a soft drink establishment on the east side of the lake, controlled by the United Railways, to direct thirsty people to the west side of the lake, where the saloons and lid clubs have been operating in violation of the Sunday law. A boat line between the east and west shores is in continuous operation on Sundays, and the prosecuting officials said they had information that the railroads company got one-half the ferry fare for all passengers who visited the illegal resorts.

They Flee From Crowd. After the episode in Tschamker's saloon, Brooks, Israel and Howe, fearing that they were going to be attacked by a crowd of rough-looking men congregated there, slipped out at the back door and ran through the brush and marshes nearly a mile to their automobile. At one point they had to hire a woman to row them across the neck of the lake.

Ralph said that former Prosecuting Attorney Lahey had vigorously prosecuted the violators of the liquor laws during his term of office and that he expected to pursue the same policy, even if he had to get all of the evidence through his own office. Lahey was compelled to send out deputies and to go himself to the different resorts in the county to gather evidence against the violators of the law, as the other county officials, whose duty it was to make arrests and report violations, did nothing to put an end to infractions of the law. The three investigators, besides the evidence against the Creve Coeur lake resorts, also obtained evidence of the violation of the law at Eden Park, near Meramec Highlands.

'NEUTRALITY' BODY FAILS TO OBTAIN SPEAKERS OF NOTE

Invitations to Address Anti-War
Demonstration at Delmar Garden
Generally Declined.

The invitations by the "American Neutrality League," which protests against the shipments of war munitions to the anti-German allies, to speakers of national reputation to deliver addresses at the anti-war demonstration at Delmar Garden Saturday, have been generally declined.

Among the national celebrities announced at various times as having been invited to speak were President Wilson, former Secretary of State Bryan, Speaker Champ Clark, United States Senator Stone, James Addams of Hull House, Chicago, and Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago.

President Wilson, through Secretary Tumulty, sent this response to the invitation of the league, addressed to John C. Meyers, who has charge of the Delmar Garden demonstration:

The President asks me to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram, and to say that, while your courtesy is appreciated, he feels that it would not be proper, nor is it possible, for him to attend the meeting in question.

Mayor Kiel also declined the invitation. His secretary, Harry M. Crutcher, sent a note expressing the thanks of the Mayor, and adding that it would be impossible for him to be present.

Meyers expressed surprise that Mayor Kiel declined the invitation. Mayor Kiel said this morning that the invitation came in with a lot of others, and that his secretary told him he was booked to spend Saturday afternoon celebrating the opening of the Tower Grove viaduct. At that time, the Mayor said, he did not know the celebration was to be both in the afternoon and evening. "I think I shall go out Saturday evening," the Mayor said. "I am too much of a German to do anything to offend the Germans."

Bryan's Price Too High. At the office of the "American Neutrality League," in the Planters Hotel this morning, a Post-Dispatch reporter was told that it was quite certain that Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, chairman of the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations, and Prof. Eugene C. Schattschneider, exchange professor of the Columbia University, would accept invitations.

Prof. Kuehnemann spoke at the City Club the day the Lusitania was sunk, and strongly upheld the cause of Germany in the present war. The officials of the league declared they could not get Bryan because his price was too high. Several efforts have been made to get Bryan to speak, and under the leadership of Dr. Rosalvo Bobo, last March, showed interest in Port-Au-Prince today.

After several hours of fighting at the presidential residence where Guillaume made a courageous defense against the revolutionists, the President took refuge in the French legation, whither he had been preceded by the members of his family.

The palace was on fire before Guillaume decided to flee. Rebellious troops of the Government attacked the palace at 4 o'clock and continued firing on it for two hours. The President was supported by a few loyal troops. Gen. Oscar, Governor of Port-au-Prince, continued his resistance at the palace even after Guillaume had left it but later took refuge in the Dominican legation.

Included among the victims of this attack on the presidential residence was the Chief of Police of Port-au-Prince. By noon the city was in the possession of the revolutionists. The movement was started by a regiment of soldiers who had been disbanded by President Guillaume and who resented this treatment.

There has been a reign of terror in Port-au-Prince for the last 10 days. July 17 President Guillaume, doubtless realizing that his fall was a question of a few days, started on a series of persecutions. He caused the arrest of Haitians of wealth or position and began expelling all foreigners.

He apparently recognized the fact that the spirit of revolution was growing in the country, and he knew that the rebels were marching on the capital.

Haitian women have been arrested on the streets and taken away to prison. On July 17, a French actress, Madame Taldy, was treated in this arbitrary manner. The prisoners of the city are full and the conditions in them are deplorable.

Prisoners die daily as a result of hunger and the unsanitary conditions in which they are compelled to live.

President Said to Plan Final PLEA FOR PEACE IN MEXICO

Falling, It Is Believed He Will Cause Government to Be Formed Which U. S. Can Recognize.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Official announcement that the United States Government would make a definite move soon to solve the Mexican problem led to some speculation here today as to what course would be pursued. The announcement did not reveal the nature of the action planned.

President Wilson has been giving close study to the Mexican situation, particularly since the heads of the warring factions have failed to heed his warning to settle their differences. The most probable step, it is said, will be to make a final plea to Gen. Carranza to confer with leaders of other factions in an effort to restore peace. Failing in this, conference of other Mexican chiefs would be urged. A Government formed by them might be recognized by the United States and aid given to maintain it.

FATHER JOHN'S FOR THROAT AND LUNGS BUILDS YOU UP

'PHONY' QUESTIONS IN PLOT AGAINST EFFICIENCY BOARD

Jail Warden Examination Made
Occasion for Effort to Discredit Commission

The examination of 32 candidates who desire to succeed William Trol as Warden of the city jail was begun by the Efficiency Board today, after the board had taken the precaution of discounting what it believes to be an effort by professional politicians to discredit it by giving out the impression that Robert Walker, a former Justice of the Peace, was slated for the job before the examination began.

Ever since the appointment of Thomas H. Rogers as chairman of the board, certain politicians are alleged to have been making an effort to "get his scalp." At the city hall today it was said that these politicians had been trying to create the impression that the examination for Warden would not be based on the merits of the applicants, and that a list of the questions to be asked had been given to Walker in advance of the examination.

Rogers today said he had heard of this plot to discredit the board. To offset it he gave to the reporters at the city hall a list of the questions to be asked at the examination. This was done after the candidates had all been assembled in the examination room and there was no chance that they could see the questions.

The plot, as told about at the city hall, involved the preparation of a "phony" list of questions to be asked at the examination. It was said that this list was taken to a morning newspaper office and submitted for publication as being a list which had been given to Walker so that he might prepare in advance for the examination. About the same time politicians, using another morning newspaper as their medium, circulated story that Walker had already been selected to succeed Trol and none of the other candidates would have a chance.

Rogers today told a Post-Dispatch reporter that despite the plot to discredit the board the action of the politicians would not be permitted to injure anyone's chances in the examination.

How Walker May Be Named. "If Walker is among the three who have the highest percentage," Rogers said, "his standing will be so reported by the board."

The appointment of a Jail Warden will be made by Public Welfare Commissioner Tolkecz after the Efficiency Board reports to him the result of the examination. Tolkecz today said he would appoint Walker in case Walker's name should be among the three having the highest percentages.

"I will appoint Walker because I have known him a long time and think him fully qualified for the place," said Tolkecz. "He will be my selection if he is among the first three."

Capitalist and Railroad Builder Continues Journey; Found in Dazed Condition.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., July 27.—Louis Houck, capitalist, railroad builder, historian and president of the Board of Regents of the Cape Girardeau Normal School, was severely hurt in a peculiar accident near this city this morning. He was driving in from his home, Elmwood, when the harness broke and his buggy started to run down a steep hill. The vehicle struck a tree, throwing Houck, who is past 70 years old, head foremost over the dashboard and to the ground. He got up, repaired the harness and continued on his journey.

Then he apparently became dazed. Somebody saw him driving aimlessly about and observed that he had been injured. He was taken to a doctor, who declared his condition was not dangerous.

Houck was the builder of the Houck railroad lines in Southeastern Missouri, most of which have been absorbed by the Missouri Pacific. He is the author of a history of Missouri in three large volumes. He has been called the wealthiest man in Southeastern Missouri.

Daniels Tells Post-Dispatch of Plans to Improve the Navy

In view of the avowed purpose of the Government to inject new life into the army and naval forces of the United States the Post-Dispatch telegraphed to Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, asking him to outline his plans for the improvement of the navy. Below is his reply:

By JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
Secretary of the Navy.

DOORHEAD, N. D., July 27.—We are now studying what has been learned by the European war that will constitute the best guide for the larger naval program. The outstanding lessons are three:

1. The value of the submarine. The last Congress authorized twice as many submarines as any previous Congress and also authorized the building of three sea-going submarines larger than any nation has yet constructed. We are building one submarine in the navy yard at Portsmouth, N. H., and are securing competition between Government plants and private construction companies. We are expecting to get better batons to repair machinery been ordered from Edison and will be installed, one in an old and one in a new submarine. Naval experts and civilians are trying to improve the motors, which are now difficult to obtain. We are planning to build submarine bases ashore and for new tenders for submarines. The perfection of the submarine and the construction of a larger number of additional ones may be said to be receiving most earnest consideration by naval experts and naval statesmen.

2. The European war has emphasized the value of aircraft as a naval aid. The last Congress recognized the importance of aircraft and gave us $1,000,000 to begin a fleet of scouts in the air. We have established at the abandoned navy yard at Pensacola an aeroplane station with school for instructions, construction officers will soon have completed the plans for the construction of our aeroplanes at Pensacola. Important experiments are being made at the navy yard in Washington. I had made contracts to buy a hydroaeroplane in Germany and in France just before war was declared. These cannot be secured now, but we have placed orders also with home companies and are buying all types that are suitable for our service made by American manufacturing concerns. Almost daily we are assigning young officers to the Pensacola school so we will have trained men to fly in the new craft ordered.

3. The need of fast cruisers has been emphasized. The general board and construction officers are now busy discussing the character of fast cruisers and battle cruisers. Our policy in the navy hitherto has been to sacrifice speed to armor and guns. Now we see the need of a new type of cruiser, armor to speed. We must have ships that in heavy seas can make 40 knots. The types are yet to be determined upon.

These are the big things the big war had emphasized as the immediate need in our naval program.

Have we need to change our policy as to torpedo destroyers and dreadnaughts and armor? These are matters our ablest experts at home and abroad are studying and discussing. The general board is holding daily sessions discussing these and other naval problems. The number of additional officers and men is under consideration. Until these studies are completed I can make no definite statement now. It will be a program of progress and development along lines learned by experience.

The exposure of the scandal resulting in the municipal receivership arose from the fact that the Assistant City Treasurer, J. B. Vest Jr., did not return from his annual vacation and was reported to have fled to Australia or New Zealand. His accounts were examined by auditors, who found that the city's books for 1911, 1912 and part of 1913 were missing or mutilated.

The storm broke June 12, when Mayor Burns attempted to remove Comptroller R. Miles Burns from office, charging that he was responsible for the theft and mutilation of the books. Burns replied with a bill in chancery charging that "City Finance Commissioner Andrews had made an expensive campaign which he financed out of the city funds, with the connivance of Assistant Treasurer West." Burns and Andrews were both indicted for larceny of city records, and gave bond to answer in the criminal courts.

Burns' answer to the indictment against himself was to file a petition in the Chancery Court asking that a receiver be appointed for the city, and it was this petition which was granted today. He also caused the arrest of City Treasurer Myers on a charge of fraudulent appropriation of the public money.

Governed by Commission. Nashville has been under the commission form of government, but since the exposure of conditions in the city finances, the situation has been largely in the control of a Committee of Public Safety, an outgrowth of the Bankers' Committee whose auditors precipitated the crisis by their investigation of the records.

It is said that the sums lost to the city are not large, and that they will probably be covered by the bonds of the officials in question. The appointment of receivers was not altogether expected, as Nashville is said today to have a taxable value of $20,000,000 and good credit, which enabled it a month ago to sell $25,000 of school bonds at a premium.

This is the second time Nashville has been in receivership, the first having occurred in 1899.

NASHVILLE, TENN., TO BE PLACED IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

Mayor and Other Officials Suspended Pending Outcome of Ouster Proceedings.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 27.—Chancellor John Allison this morning placed Nashville into the hands of a receiver, appointing Clerk and Master Robert Vaughn to take charge of all business affairs of the city.

A few minutes later Judge Thomas E. Matthews of the Circuit Court suspended Mayor Howe, Robert Elliott, Commissioner of Water Works, Lyle Andrews, Commissioner of Finance, and Treasurer Myers. Andrews had already been removed by the City Commission and his successor, Park Marshall, appointed, but there has been some question as to the legality of his removal.

The suspension of these officials is to last until the final disposition of proceedings brought under the new State ouster law. These developments are the outcome of the discovery several months ago that a large number of city books had been destroyed, the discovery being made on the eve of a general city audit brought about by the insistent demands of the citizens.

Assistant City Treasurer Goss. The exposure of the scandal resulting in the municipal receivership arose from the fact that the Assistant City Treasurer, J. B. Vest Jr., did not return from his annual vacation and was reported to have fled to Australia or New Zealand. His accounts were examined by auditors, who found that the city's books for 1911, 1912 and part of 1913 were missing or mutilated.

There's nothing more enjoyable than a motor trip to the country, a picnic lunch in a shady nook and a cold, sparkling bottle of

HYDE PARK

"Seldom Equaled Never Exceeded"

Without Hyde Park, however, half the pleasure of such an occasion is lost. The refreshment Hyde Park affords; its tasty flavor and the offsetting of the fatigue of your journey by its exhilaration are all vital factors of enjoyment.

When next you take a motor trip be sure you take Hyde Park along. Keep a case in your home always. You will eat better, sleep better and feel better if you do, because Hyde Park is, as well as a delicious beverage, a summer tonic without equal.

All Hotels and Cafes Serve Hyde Park

The fifth process through which Hyde Park Bottled Beer passes is that of being brought quickly from a boiling point to the desired low temperature. This is accomplished by having the solution pass over a cooler. Above we show this cooling device.

BIG BENEFIT FOR BABIES' FUND AT AIRDOME TONIGHT

Children Have Been Planning Affair at the Ariel for Weeks.

Substantial reinforcement of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund is looked for from the benefit this evening at the Ariel Airdome, 3335 Morgan street. The benefit will be a practical manifestation of sympathy for the poor and ailing babies on the part of 16 boys and girls and Mrs. W. F. Gradolph. These children and Mrs. Gradolph have been industriously engaged for some weeks in arranging details of the affair. This will be the second benefit given for the babies by these children this season, and the program shows the result of the experience and enthusiasm obtained from continued work in the cause. The feature to which all of those engaged point with especial gratification is the march with figures spelling "P. D. Pure Milk and Ice Fund," a clever device, artistically developed. There are many other features, such as solo and choral singing, solo and ensemble dancing, with fancy and jig specialties, recitations, instrumental music and tableaux.

Names of the girls and boys who have thus, for the second time this season,

"We'll just put him on Sanatogen"

What a happy thought prompted that decision! He wasn't his "old self" at all—and try to mask it as he might, his face showed only too well how poorly he felt. And so when a friend—with conviction born of experience—spoke of Sanatogen, they "put him on Sanatogen."

Sanatogen—combining the tissue-building properties of a FOOD with the invigorating qualities of a TONIC—rejuvenated his appetite, improved his digestion, brought rest to his nerves, made good the over-drafts upon his energies—and little by little brought back that old-time vigor and sprightliness and joy in living.

Perhaps you have not yet had this happy thought—perhaps you haven't yet "put him on Sanatogen."

Then simply let us tell you this: Over 21,000 physicians have testified in writing to the value of Sanatogen after having observed its effects in daily practice. So, too, have hundreds of famous men and women whose very names must be convincing—people who know from personal experience the restorative help that Sanatogen gives. It is a verdict that cannot be mistaken.

When will you give Sanatogen the opportunity to help him, or her, or you?

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere in doses from $1.00 up come to the aid of the babies, are Misses Miriam Aye, Marion Cole, Bertha and Vera Chertoff, Florence and Jewell Dowdell, Grace Drown, Mabel and Vera Gradolph, Elaine Smith; Masters Cyril Aye, Robert Coose, Cecil Hoff, George Klehammer, Kennett Postum and John Sanders.

Basar Promises Results.

Another affair that promises a handsome addition to the fund is the basar to be given at 6800 Delmar boulevard by a number of girls and boys residing in University City. They also have been working assiduously and intelligently for several days, organizing the varied features by which the benefit entertainment is to be marked. There will be booths devoted to varying money-raising activities, with sales of seasonal refreshments. The children are all popular in that section of the city and have the cordial co-operation of their parents and grown-up friends, so that the event is quite likely to prove notable both from the standpoint of pleasure and benefit for the poor babies. Dedication of the Tower Grove viaduct Saturday, which will prove a big event in that section of the city, has suggested to John Weber and Mike Kitchell, two grown-ups, an opportunity for manifesting interest in the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund in a substantial manner. Weber and Kitchell have arranged to market various kinds of refreshments, day and evening, all the proceeds to be contributed to the cause of the poor babies. Contributions of articles to be thus disposed of have been made by the Manual Bread Co., Tinker's Dairy, Polar-Wave Ice Co. and Louis Fazio, and stands for the marketing of them have been arranged to be set up at Tower Grove and Hunt avenues.

Vaudeville Shows Nets $18.
A vaudeville show at the home of Albertina Goessling, 327 Maryville avenue, realized $18 for the fund. Among the many features was a playlet entitled, "Sleeping Beauty," wherein Martha Timberlake and Dumont Dempsey starred. Another, "The Goddess of Liberty," in which Albertina Goessling was the goddess. In addition to these there were singing, dancing, instrumental music, and recitations, all of the children doing their work well, having been skillfully trained by Miss Margaret Goessling.

Those who took part in the entertainment are: Eileen and Glennon Grady, Hamilton and Suburban tracks; Dorothy and Randall Johnson, 923 Maryville avenue; Albertina, Herman Jr., and Gregory Goessling, 327 Maryville avenue; Martha, Virginia and Billie Timberlake, 338 Maryville; Dumont and Tom Dempsey, Maple and Hamilton avenues; Harry Kramer, Maple and Hamilton avenues; William Lacy, 3500 Maple avenue, and Freddy Bell, 943 Maryville avenue.

The spirit of progress was admirably displayed by 13 young folk who held a carnival and lawn festival at the home of Mrs. Hester, 1410 North Euclid avenue. This is the third consecutive year these children have engaged in relief work for the babies. The fine year their efforts brought $7; last year they earned about $12, and this year they raised $13.

There were many features of striking interest in the recent festival, all of which were received with enthusiasm. Those who took part are Jean Wells, Anna Hester, Grace Teller, Margaret Hester, Edith Cox, Cora Blair, Dorothy McPherson, Ada Solomon, Billy Sherman, Emmett Beria, Elmer Lutz, George de Lons and James McGolli.

Children Give Penny Show.

Six little girls and one boy worked ardently for a week prior to the production of their penny show, which was held at the home of Cecelia Barry, 1717 Coleman street. The performance netted $2.81 for the benefit of the babies. It consisted of several splendid features, among them playlets entitled "Cinderella," "The Irish Family," "Grandma" and "Don't Take My Loving Boy Away." There also were songs, dances and recitations. Those who participated in the affair are Cecelia Barry, 1717 Coleman street; Lucille and Elizabeth Smith, 1718 Coleman street; Helen Foley, 1723 Glasgow place; Nora Rabbit, 1718 Coleman; Kathryn Morard, 1717A Coleman; and Joseph Murphy, 1721 Coleman. This was the first entertainment these children have given, and they are planning a second one for this summer.

Rose Susman, 2727 Thomas street, and Dorothy Fleischman, 2724 Sheridan avenue, went about their neighborhood and collected $1.13 for the benefit of the babies. Robert Nehl Fullerton, 2333 Labadie avenue, collected $2.35.

old, disposed of a boudoir cap for the benefit of the fund. That she is an efficient worker is attested by the fact that she obtained $2.

A lemonade stand on the 4600 block of Cook avenue, operated parts of three days, netted $4 for the fund. This is the first year these children have sided. They are Lucille Magit, 4238 Cook avenue; Vivienne Billmeyer, 4202 Cook, and Philo Gill, 4238 Cook avenue.

Harry Blotwies, 1349 North Garrison avenue, went about his neighborhood and collected $1.13 for the benefit of the babies.

Cornelia Schuermann, 8 years old, 3598 Utah street, disposed of a corset cover and earned $3 for the benefit of the babies. Mrs. L. J. Faustick, 3011A Arsenal street, became the owner of ice cream. Cornelia's father is an officer, and his duties take him through the tenement district, where the tots of the poor are given their milk each day. Schuermann came home one evening and told of the tragedy of these little children. This recital stirred Cornelia and she began to work. She will not stop with the amount she has turned in, but already plans are under way for a second enterprise for the benefit of the fund.

Several children residing in the vicinity of Gratiot Station produced a playlet, with songs and instrumental music. In the lawn of Mrs. William Droe, 6943

Bradley avenue, which resulted in $11.45 for the Pure Milk Fund. The lawn was beautifully decorated with bunting and Japanese lanterns. Those who participated in the play are: Cecelia and Ethel Hare, 6834 Marquette avenue; William Droe, 6843 Bradley avenue; Charles and Harold Duff, 6843 Bradley avenue. $3 Earned at Lemonade Stand.
Three little girls on the 4100 block of Maryland avenue conducted a lemonade stand and earned $2 for the fund. These children are Jeannette Friedman, 4127 Maryland; Leona Gebben, 4135, and Henrietta Rosenblum, 4209 Maryland. This is the third year these children have contributed their aid.

A lemonade stand conducted at 726 Walton avenue by a little girl and boy, earned $1.50. These children are Joe Mayer, 726 Walton avenue, and Evelyn Rooder, 644 Bell avenue.

An addition of $25 to the fund came through an entertainment at 3338 Michigan avenue, in which 10 little girls and boys afforded a delightful evening to an audience of substantial proportions. The participants are Mildred and Vera Becker, Eleanor Temperie, Vera and Edward Althage, Arara and Willie Grills, Raymond Daniels, David West and Roland Reifel.

Goldie, Pearl, Victor and Willie Larner of 1214 North Euclid avenue conducted a lemonade stand and added 55 cents to the fund.

Harold and Charlie Kaufman, 8 and 11 years old, respectively, of 5415 Reber place sent in 34 cents made by them selling lemonade, with the request to "please add same to the Pure Milk Fund for poor babies, and may God bless them."

Burns Cause Death From Poisoning.
Julius Wilhelm, 25 years old, of 1077 Sells avenue, died yesterday at Barnes Hospital from blood poisoning. June 30 his left arm was scalded when he was at work in the plant of the American Paper Products Co., 221 Bremen avenue. The injury was neglected until July 1 when he was sent to the hospital.

Summertime Stomach Troubles

There are several causes of an upset stomach during hot weather, when a greater variety of food is available to satisfy the fickle appetite. Almost unnoticed, unripe, or even slightly decomposed food will slip by the sentinels of taste and often turn in well regulated stomach into such a condition as to produce the more distressing forms of summer complaints. Since diarrhoea, cramps, dysentery, cholera morbus, and even typhoid, are the result of an indiscriminate diet and impure drinking water, it behooves everybody to be on their guard. To easily avoid summer complaints drink plenty of water—not ice water—eat sparingly of well cooked food, including vegetables, and before each meal and on retiring take a tablespoonful of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in an equal amount of water or milk. It favorably influences weak digestion. Go to your druggist, grocer or dealer for and get a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, take it regularly as directed.—ADV.

OLIVER D. FILLEY RECEIVES BRITISH MILITARY CROSS

St. Louisan's Gallantry in Fight With Two German Aeroplanes Recognized.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.
LONDON, July 27.—Military honors have been bestowed upon Lieut. Oliver Dwight Filley of the Royal flying corps member of a St. Louis family. Lieut. Filley has received the military cross for conspicuous gallantry.

Filley is famous in American college sports as an oarsman. He was the stroke and captain of the Harvard crew of 1906, which won over Yale. He afterward took the crew to England to race Cambridge and Oxford on the Thames. The Filley family has large commercial interests in English potteries and Lieut. Filley spent much of his youth in England. He studied engineering in Harvard, after which he went to Mexico. He received his commission in the aviation corps shortly after the beginning of the war.

The gallantry by which the young American won the military cross was displayed on July 6, while he was taking observations for the British artillery. The official report says Lieut. Filley, with an observer, went aloft with an aeroplane especially constructed for fighting, repulsed two attacks by German aeroplanes, continued his observation and retired only after two German aeroplanes charged him at once. His observer had been killed at his side, the engine of the aeroplane crippled and Lieut. Filley had exhausted his last round of ammunition in battling with the enemy.

Another sportsman, known in America, who has achieved military honors, is Capt. H. A. Tompkinson of the Royal Dragoons, who was a member of the British polo team that wrested the international cup from America in 1914. He has been promoted to the rank of Major.

There is no official statement of the reason for Maj. Tompkinson's promotion, save the inference of general efficiency. On his trips to America, to appear in the international polo matches, the tall, modest-mannered Englishman achieved great social honors, and was a favorite with the crowds because of his fine riding and playing and allround good sportsmanship.

Lieut. Filley, who has relatives here, spent boyhood in England. Lieut. Filley is related to several St. Louisans and has visited in St. Louis several times, the last time being 35 years ago. He spent his boyhood in England, and upon his return he attended Harvard, where he was captain of the shell crew. He worked for a while in Mexico as a mining engineer, and was in Africa in that capacity when the European war started.

Filley is the son of the late Oliver B. Filley, iron manufacturer, and a nephew of Robert E. Charles, Frank P. and J. Dwight Filley, and of Messrs. John T. Davis, Isaac W. Morton and Thomas T. Richards.
Capt. Thwaites Receives Military Cross for Valor at Ypres.
LONDON, July 26.—Capt. Norman G. Thwaites of the Fourth Dragoon Guards, formerly of the staff of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the New York World, has received from the hands of King George at Buckingham Palace the Military Cross for valor in the first battle of Ypres. The King held an investiture and conferred decorations on more than 100 war heroes.
Capt. (then Lieut.) Thwaites was in command of an advance trench before Ypres Oct. 31, at the crisis of the battle. Orders were given, shortly before dawn, for the advanced line to fall back, but the orders did not reach Thwaites. As a result, he and 64 men were left "in the air," exposed in front and on both flanks to an overwhelming attack.
Lieut. Thwaites held out against great odds until relief came and the trench was saved, but he and four-fifths of his men were shot. Early in the action an explosion of a "Jack Johnson" shell completely buried Thwaites, but his men dug him out. Later he was struck in the neck by a rifle bullet and seriously wounded. While he was in a London hospital he was promoted and the award of the Military Cross was announced.

GOING AWAY THIS SUMMER!
Make your vacation complete. Have the Post-Dispatch mailed to your address, which may be changed as frequently as you wish. Price by mail, postage paid, 45 cents a month.

PROSS CENSOR LAW IN DENMARK

Ministry of Justice Given Control Over Comment on War Topics.
COPENHAGEN, July 27.—A temporary law giving the Danish Minister of Justice arbitrary powers to restrain the press in its comment upon matters connected with the war has been hurriedly passed and signed by King Christian. Newspapers violating this regulation will be subject to fine and will not have recourse to the regular tribunals.

The passage of this measure is due to the desire of the Government to check criticism of the belligerent Powers.

SWITCHMAN KILLED BY ENGINE

W. O. Winter Run Down in East St. Louis Yards.
W. O. Winter, 40 years old, a switchman for the Big Four Railroad, was run down and fatally injured by a switch engine in the East St. Louis yards, near the Broadway viaduct, at 1:30 p. m. today.

Winter stepped out of the way of an engine and failed to notice one coming in the other direction. He died at the Deaconess Hospital at 12:45 p. m.

Italy in War to Keep From Being Discounted Among Powers

Inez Milholland Says Task Is Big

By Inez Milholland Boissevain.

(Copyright, 1915, by The New York Tribune.)
ROME, June 29.—It is futile to attempt to discuss the causes of war in Italy. The causes, to begin with, are as old as the world is old. Italy, like every other nation, is doing international business under an old system. Granted the system, war is its inevitable sequence.

The system, of course, assumes that international disputes must be settled by force of arms. This assumption, though occasionally modified by accidents like the peaceful determination of the Dogger banks and the Alaskan boundaries dispute, is the only one that is seriously considered by the "Government-minded" as proof of which take the fact that it is the only method prepared for by all nations. Alternatives, like peace tribunals, arbitration arrangements, or adjudication of any sort other than war, are mostly a matter of individual enterprise, and as such have no prestige of the sort that only natural and official endorsement is able to give. Without such endorsement, these enterprises appear to the people at large, who are not accustomed to do their public thinking for themselves, as amiable, freakish and without sanction of precedent, practicability or good sense.

War seems natural. Arbitration by force of arms on the other hand, with the glorification and benediction accorded it in history, tradition, art, poetry and public manners, appears natural, inevitable and even desirable. To switch the train of popular thought from these long established channels is the task Titanic for busness who would combat the fury and stupidity of war. Education, private and public (that is of the sort derived from the establishment of public institutions like an international parliament), is the only way to accomplish such a task. But war has already prepared the soil for the reception of new seeds; people are asking why? to what end this blood and bloodiness? People who never before asked. Resentment that is as yet inarticulate is to be found in the breasts of all.

Your Government-launched program for peace and mediation without armistice will evoke a response incalculable; will give hope to the peoples on earth who are now struggling blindly through a desert of hate, despair, bewilderment and agony; to peoples who as yet do not know they are in need of hope. Perhaps the most that they ask for is to be let alone, to do the business of life in peace—to live, to love, to die. Faith and vision and will are needed—and remembrances of past triumphs of human institutions over habits that are brutal. What we will, we shall have. There is no power in heaven or on earth strong enough to combat the force of our aggregate will.

Italy is Frank. But things being as they are, Italy, like the other nations, was swept into the current of hate, of violence and greed. For war admits all the hideous qualities and actions that in civilized life we relegate. Only, unlike the other nations who have put forward one high-sounding excuse after another, Italy frankly admits that she is in the business of war for what she can get out of it. Speaking from the current national and patriotic viewpoint, Italy had more "right" to war—if an interested party to a dispute may be considered as judge of the right or wrong of the dispute—than any other nation, except, perhaps, Germany.

Italy had certain national prestige to maintain; that prestige was a thing determined not by internal development, but by capacity for external aggressive action according to present international standards. Without capacity for such aggressive action for the sake of "holding her own" a nation believes that her development, internal and external, is checked. Perhaps she is right, but other ways of "holding one's own" have been devised and accepted. Howbeit, national vanity is played upon and the belief in one's "country's honor" comes to be sacred and second only to a belief in God.

This is one of the causes of war. Italy, I do not doubt, believed that her integrity as a nation was threatened unless she swung into line. To begin with, she spoke, with excellent sense I thought, of neutrality. And I remembered how, in America at that time, we looked to her with eyes of admiration. Italy had a great role to play here in the heart of Europe—a role that we might play in the United States if we keep our heads and tempers. But Italy was not yet ready to play that role. So Italy went to war. Nominally because she had been provoked by Austria, actually because, having broken with Germany and Austria, she had nothing to hope for from France and Russia and England unless she united herself with them. And she was herself in the future, a nation discounted among the Powers.

Pledged to stay to end. In such a position she had no hope when the time came for dividing up booty of obtaining her share, and she particularly insists upon a share in Asia Minor. She had nothing to expect from Germany and England guaranteed nothing—not even Trentino and Trieste—unless she joined the alliance. So Italy joined.

The terms of the alliance are, of course, unknown, but it is understood that Italy is pledged to stay in till the end of the war, to make no separate peace and to send troops to the Dardanelles. Such terms sound probable, and God help Italy! I believe she has undertaken much more than she can manage. Her resources will not permit of it. She is still feeling the effects of her war in Tripoli, for one thing; the crops are not what was expected; for another, the general poverty is appalling. But more important, I believe, than all else is this fact. Granted that Italy swung into war with enthusiasm (though to my mind the demonstration that passed for enthusiasm had more of hysteria than spontaneity about them), will such enthusiasm last when the people who respond now to the war cry "Trieste and Trentino" realize that Trieste and Trentino is but the beginning of Italian operations and not the end?

Those whom this business of war is able to throw into a state of ecstatic fervor are stimulated thereby to the fever of "nationality" or the "liberation of the shackled people in the north"—a liberation that has been dreamed and hymned. But when this liberation is achieved (and, incidentally, it is being considerably delayed, for by now the Italians had counted on being in Trieste, and they are not), what is to inflame these souls who delight in war? People Will Lose Enthusiasm.

Then, when the pinch of war is felt, when disease spreads and winter comes, when Austrian domination is thrown off, what enthusiasm will remain to fight the battles of England and of France—nations for whom no love is lost in the best of times? For the ultimate advantages, if any, of Italy's alliance are too remote for appreciation by a people who believe that they march to battle with the cry of an enslaved brother in their ears and for whom the results, prophesied and actual, must be immediate.

No, I am inclined to think that Italians will resent their obligations to the allies; that they will feel cheated and exploited; inasmuch as the thing they believe they are fighting for is not at all what will be required of them. It is sanguine now, but the wounded have not begun to come in.

We hear that Italian losses are heavy. Whatever else may be, there is no attempt to deceive the people by accounts of exaggerated victories or minimized losses.

The King is in the midst of the operations. To a greater extent even than is supposed. He is reported to have been nearly killed by an exploding shell; he saved himself by throwing himself on the ground—face down. A Colonel who stood next to him was killed. Very naturally his conduct at the front, his participation in the daily life and dangers of his soldiers has inspired the utmost enthusiasm, confidence and devotion. And I must say, it seems thoroughly deserved.

The gallantry of the troops in the north is a matter for astonishment even here. We are told that they are irresistible. Such tales are still able to bring tears of patriotic fervor to the eyes of mothers whose sons are gone. What is the unholy power of this war sentiment that makes natural and maternal instincts sink into insignificance? Yesterday I was told of a mother whose three sons were refused as volunteers because of physical disabilities. She went with them to a doctor. He observed that at such a time the disabilities must be a matter of congratulation. She turned on him like a fury. "Congratulations—no, of humiliation. What have I to offer to my country?" I could have told her of many services she might have rendered one of which might have been to produce healthy children—for herself and others. But service is still determined by blood and danger and sacrifice, and the service of him who "dies for his country" seems too tame a thing for any but a poet or a lover of mankind.

Meanwhile the anxiety is growing in the eyes of those who fearfully ask for news of loved ones. I shall have to wait with a sort of terror for the moment when this anxiety will deepen into a clamor!

It is the first ugly aftermath of war.

THROWN FROM TRAIN, MAN SAYS
Martin Downs Also Complains That He Was Robbed of $7.
Martin Downs, 49 years old, living at the Victor House, Seventh and Walnut streets, was found in a dazed condition last night at De Baliviere avenue, near the Rock Island tracks. He told the police that he and 60 other laborers had been shipped out by a labor agency to a point in Kansas and that while the train was moving along between Union boulevard and De Baliviere avenue several of his companions robbed him of $7 and pitched him from the train. He had cuts and bruises on his head.

VERDICT IN AUTO CASE CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS

Finding of Coroner's Jury Against Driver Whose Car Hit Nathan Owen, Who Died.

A verdict of criminal carelessness was returned today by a Coroner's jury against F. J. Falsone, an insurance agent of 6425 Maple avenue, who, in an automobile, May 27, ran down and injured Nathan Owen, 80 years old, at Washington avenue and Broadway. Owen died last Tuesday at his home, 5123 Minerva avenue.

Testimony at Inquest.
Testimony at the inquest was that the traffic officer had given the signal for the east and west traffic to proceed, and was holding the north and south traffic when Falsone, northbound on Broadway, turned east into Washington avenue without heeding the traffic officer's signals.

His automobile struck Owen, who had started across Broadway from the east curb. Owen was knocked down and injured internally. The taking of testimony was begun by the Coroner last Thursday, and was continued until today to give Falsone an opportunity to make a statement. His attorney reported this morning that he was out of the city and that it had been impossible to reach him in time for him to appear today.

Finding to Be Sent to Police.
Traffic Officer Schneider testified that a statement in the police report that Owen said the accident was unavoidable was not correct. He said that Owen had asked him to obtain the name and address of the driver of the automobile. He said the police stenographer, in typewriting the report, had made the error. The finding of the jury will be sent to the police and to the Circuit Attorney for such action as they decide to take. Owen was Deputy Marshal in City Court No. 2, and was the father of John B. Owen, Deputy Collector of water rates.

THEIR OFFER REJECTED
Committee Named, However, to See What Can Be Done Toward Repurchase.

Twenty-five of the 345 members of the Glen Echo Country Club met at the Planters Hotel yesterday afternoon, and appointed Russell E. Gardner, Lon O. Hocker and William Niekamp as a committee of ways and means to devise a plan for repurchasing the club's property from the board of trustees which now holds it.

Invitations to the meeting had been sent to all members of the club except the trustees, and it was expected that at least a majority of the 25 "outs," who were left off the proposed new club's invitation list, would attend. O. E. Buder presided and the motion to appoint the committee of three was made by Hocker. Buder and Hocker were invited to join the new club, but their sympathies are with the excluded members.

Trustees' Offer Rejected.
The proposition made yesterday by the trustees was rejected. This provided that the old club members reimburse the trustees for the $132,000 they paid for the property and then join with the trustees in placing the club in the hands of a receiver and selling the property at auction a second time. Hocker said a receivership and another sale would be unnecessary and that he believed a better plan would be for the members of the club to raise $132,000 and buy the property outright from the trustees and then continue the club's operation, taking in all of the old members who were in good standing.

Members to Be Consulted.
The committee of three will confer with members as to their willingness to contribute to a $132,000 repurchasing fund and will report at a meeting Friday night at the Washington Hotel.

Gardner said he believed the trustees' offer to resell the club to the members was a confession that its plan to organize a new club had failed. He referred to the exclusive publication in last Friday's Post-Dispatch which showed that only 71 of the 240 members invited to join the new club had sent in their acceptance. He also said he had been informed that only 45 had paid initiation fees in the new club.

Gardner advised that the trustees be approached and asked to make concessions by which all members of the old club in good standing should be taken into the new club.

A formal motion to dissolve the old club was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by W. Christy Bryan, attorney for the trustees.

ISLAND SEARCHED FOR MAN WHO PUSHED MRS. DREXEL OFF CLIFF
Large Reward Offered for Capture—Tree Prevented Philadelphia Woman From Falling 40 Feet.

ISLESBORO, Me., July 27.—The island has been searched from one end to the other and the Sheriff at Belfast, Camden, Rockland and Ellsworth notified to look out for the man who, on Saturday afternoon, pushed Mrs. G. W. C. Drexel of Philadelphia over a cliff at North Islesboro, when she had a narrow escape from serious injury or death. A large reward has been offered for his capture.

The extensive estate of the Drexels makes up almost the entire north end of the island and is wild and isolated. Mrs. Drexel was walking alone from the cottage to the yacht landing when she says she heard a noise behind her and saw a man following her. Mrs. Drexel turned to retrace her steps and, as she passed the man, he gave her a sudden push over the bank.

RUSSIA OUSTS MEN RESPONSIBLE FOR SHORTAGE OF AMMUNITION

Authorities Admit No Large Counter-Offensive Is Possible Until Munitions Supply Is Increased.

LONDON, July 27.—There has been a clean sweep from the Russian War Office of the men responsible for the shortage in ammunition, according to the correspondent at Petrograd of the Daily Mail.

The correspondence reports the exile of the Russian capital of a more cheerful feeling at the courageous resistance the Russian armies are making to the Austro-German advance.

He adds the frank admission by the authorities is made for the first time publicly that no large Russian counter-offensive is possible until the mobilization of industry bears fruit in a largely increased supply of munitions.

Gen. Soukhomlinoff, the Russian Minister of War, resigned June 28, and Emperor Nicholas designated Gen. Polivanoff to fill the office. The reason for the resignation of Gen. Soukhomlinoff was not stated.

KAISER'S SON PUBLISHES BOOK
BERLIN, via London, July 27.—Prince Oscar, the fifth son of Emperor William, has published a book describing a winter battle in the Champagne region, where Gen. Joffre, the French commander in chief, unsuccessfully attacked the German lines near Perthes.

The Prince was attached to the headquarters of the German Third Army and he had an opportunity to observe the fighting at close range. The profits from the book will be devoted to the relief of widows and orphans of the Russian soldiers killed in these engagements.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Poor Persecuted Bakers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
From the beginning of time bakers have been the victims of attacks (nearly all unjust) by both irresponsible parties afflicted with a deep-seated "grouch," or by officials who take spasms in "serving the public," aided by our valuable and unprincipled (?) newspapers.

Just at present a howl is going up about the decreased weight of bread, and it seems that some of our "public-serving" officials have laid the blame purely on the so-called "Bread Trust," and forthwith proceeded to have a spasmodic attack. Isn't a 100 per cent increase in flour prices a just reason for a 15 to 20 per cent increase in bread prices, or a correspondingly decrease in weight? Do the butchers, grocers or shoemen keep down the prices to the detriment of the consumer? By no means, and the public says nothing until we bakers try to take what is coming to us, and then there is a—

Whose fault is it that the bread is higher? In the first place, the bakers have been holding their wheat for "war prices" and naturally the millers had to raise the price of flour. And yet the baker is expected to give as much for 5 cents when flour is $7.50 a barrel as he does when it is $4.50.

Secondly, the public demands fresh bread, which means (to a majority) that it must still be warm and at the longest, only a few hours old. The result of this is, that many loaves are returned to the bakers as stale that are perfectly good and more wholesome than hot bread, and as the bakers cannot afford this loss, the consumers suffer, as usual, by having smaller bread. The alleged "Bread Trust" is supposed to be operating in restraint of trade, and of bettering their profits. Well, what of it? I, for one, think that the rest of the bakers in St. Louis should be glad that they did better their profits, because, with their greater buying facilities, they could have put a much larger and better loaf on the market and the bakers—where would we smaller bakers be? And as for restraining trade—ha! ha! The public don't have to eat their bread and neither do the grocers have to handle it. In my humble opinion, this case will be a joke—like on some of our realists' officials and the State.

Disorder at Park Concerts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
At an expense of something more than $100 each, the city of St. Louis provides free band concerts for her citizens. It is but reasonable to believe that the authorities in charge of our parks will take proper order to see that those who attend to enjoy the music may not have their peace disturbed. This, however, is not the case. The largest crowd of the season gathered at Lafayette Park last Friday night to hear Prof. Peppin's band. The noise and confusion was so great that even Prof. Peppin was disturbed. If a few city policemen could be detailed to preserve order at these concerts in the place of inefficient park guards, it would add to the enjoyment and would show that those in authority were performing their duty to the public. Lafayette Park seems to be a center of disturbance and it is claimed by those who frequent it that a clean sweep of those in charge would prove beneficial. "CITIZEN."

"Prosperity."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The wise men say that we will not have good times until Wilson and the Democratic party are ousted from office and the Republicans reinstated. The Democrats have been playing in hard luck for a good many years—reaping the harvest of bad acts sown by Republicans. It was so with Cleveland—it is so with Wilson. It is a very sad and capitalistic system we have.

SIDNEY AVERILL.

Standard Oil's Philanthropy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Today's Globe-Democrat's article on the subject of the price of gasoline being much cheaper because they have discovered a process of making a larger amount of gasoline from a gallon of crude oil is rather amusing. Why is it that they are selling gasoline in Philadelphia at 13 cents a gallon and here in St. Louis at 9 cents? Philadelphia is very near Bayonne, where their refineries are. The truth is, that they have the field all their own in Philadelphia and here they are trying to freeze out the small dealer.

ONE OF THE DEALERS.

LIVES SACRIFICED FOR DOLLARS.

Assistant State's Attorney E. J. Raber, who has questioned 100 members of the crew and other witnesses in the Eastland disaster is quoted as saying: "The Eastland was overcrowded. Of that I am convinced from stories told me. It was that overcrowding which caused the tragedy."

A letter from a well-known naval architect, written to the United States Harbor Inspector at Chicago, will be part of the evidence in the investigation. It stated that the Eastland was a dangerous boat, and that the fact was well known. By all the laws of steamboat construction, she should have had a 40-ton keel. She had no keel at all.

Another probable factor in the disaster was that the boat had been constructed for lake traffic. But, when brought into the shallow Chicago River, she had to be lightened of her water ballast, thus making her top-heavy. Owners and inspectors must have been aware that this was a menace to passengers and crew.

The La Follette shipping law, about which Secretary Redfield had written the Eastland's owners, does not become effective until November. But the correspondence is significant as showing that the owners placed dollars above human life. They were unwilling to comply with that law because to do so would have cut down profits. The correspondence shows their attitude regarding public safety.

With the various investigations as to the causes and responsibility for this shocking disaster, it is to be hoped not only that the guilt will be fixed where it belongs, but that a warning will be felt by shipping interests generally as to the advisability of stopping their campaign against the "safety-first" provisions of the La Follette seaman's law. It should be understood, and enforced by the authorities, that human life is the first consideration in all fields of commerce and industry.

Will there be any diplomatic poultrie for the affair of the torpedoes flax cargo?

A VICTORY FOR GOLF.

At Glen Echo two forces clashed. In the last analysis it was golf versus a rank, but harmless assumption which sometimes grows on golf courses and like weeds threatens to take the democratic fair greens. For want of a better name, the assumption is called Social Position. Thackeray had a harsh name for it. Though rank, it is essentially delicate and defenseless. The minute you talk about it, argue or contend for it, you destroy it. On the other hand, golf is a healthy, powerful thing, before which pretense, innocence and otherwise, must go down when the issue is raised.

On behalf of Golf as opposed to the Other Thing, Mr. Lambert, golf sportsman, appears to have forced a satisfactory compromise, an offer of restoration and rehabilitation. The "freeze-out" is declared off.

The truth is nobly vindicated that there are no distinctions between honest golfers except as to good and bad, which is the only distinction after all that can obtain under a free republic, in which all men are equal.

There have been many assaults on the seaman's law, but the Eastland disaster may be a Waterloo for its assailants.

DARWIN'S ADVICE ON MARRIAGE.

Most young people respect Charles Darwin, if they know anything about him, as one of the world's greatest leaders in modern scientific progress. And it may be that some of them have been told that he was atheistic in his leanings and hence an unsafe guide in moral and domestic relations. Here is a delightful excerpt from his "Family Letters," collected by his daughter and just published in England. The quotation is headed "Notes on Matrimony." As to this institution, he wrote:

Among the advantages are: "Children (if it please God)—constant companion (and friend in old age)—charms of music, and female chit-chat." Among the disadvantages: "Terrible loss of time; if many children, forced to gain one's bread; fighting about no society." But, he continues, "What is the use of working without sympathy from near and dear friends? Who are near and dear friends to the old, except relatives?" And his conclusion is: "My God, it is intolerable to think of spending one's whole life like a neuter bee—working, working, and nothing after all. No, no; won't do. Imagine living all one's days solitarily in a smoky, dirty London house. Only picture to yourself a nice soft wife on a sofa, with good fire and book, and music perhaps; compare this vision with the dreary reality of St. Marlboro' street. Marry, marry, marry."

It is pleasant to know that Charles Darwin carried out his own advice, with the happiest results. His wife was a remarkable woman and his children dear to such parents.

A Kentucky statesman says that "a sucker is born every minute and that many grow up and become voters." Is it because women have nourished these that a woman is supposed to be unfitted for the ballot?

AMERICAN MILITARY FORCES.

That President Wilson has directed the Secretaries of War and of the Navy to report to him a co-ordinated program of national defense is good news.

We suffer at the moment from too much thunder and shouting of self-constituted captains. The military specialists are working at cross-purposes. The people are subjected to a bombardment of militant notions which confuse all and revolt the many who are devoted to our free institutions, and are opposed to and afraid of militarism.

This is a situation which needs to be taken in hand and ironed out by the intelligence and patriotic leadership of the nation. President Wilson is the man to assume the active supreme direction in this work. His office dictates it. His mental and spiritual qualities admirably equip him. No man of our time is more closely informed of American history, no man more hostile to the traditions and principles and what should be the service to mankind and the destiny of the American nation.

We are not to settle this matter in terms of huge money expenditures. We are not to settle it on any principle of preparedness for offensive campaigning. It is a defensive preparedness we are after. For the navy we must have to the line of superior efficiency and not superior cost and bigness. For the army we must go back to the Constitution and "a well-regulated militia" is the best "security of a free state"—the best security against the insidious internal aggression of a great standing army as well as against aggressions from without.

The statistician who has found that disasters have killed more people than the wars, will find encouragement in the Eastland details.

THAT USHER BRAY.

The Post-Dispatch, which declares the story of a secret convention (between the United States and Great Britain) to be an ill-meant calumny, is the paper which, through its publication of the Usher article, gave this calumny its widest circulation. But Usher is against Germany—which alters the case.—Translation of an editorial in today's Westliche Post.

The Post-Dispatch printed the Usher statement, which was used by German and American pro-German writers to discredit the Government of the United States, for the purpose of exposing its absurdity. In one of several editorials, printed to correct false impressions that might be caused by Prof. Usher's silly utterances, the Post-Dispatch said in part:

To make such a charge betrays abysmal ignorance of our system of government. The impossibility of such an arrangement would be exposed if Mr. Usher would try to name the authority that assumed to represent the United States in consenting to it.

An unwritten foreign treaty is a contradiction of terms, and would be worth about as much as the breath required to speak of it. A secret, unwritten alliance between the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and a President of the United States could not have the ratification of the Senate and would possess exactly the value and binding force of a secret, unwritten alliance between the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and John Jones of the Fifth Ward and no more.

That the wild ass's colt which first emitted this Bray was American does not mitigate the offense of those disloyal Americans who repeat it with the deliberate intention of discrediting their Government and dividing the American people in a grave crisis when the nation's sovereignty and rights are assailed.

MR. BRYAN HURT.

We are in sympathy with Mr. Bryan in resenting a remark made by Bishop Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal Church of San Francisco, who in introducing him stated that, "on this occasion Mr. Bryan was speaking without a cent of cost to the committee."

How uncalled for! and particularly in the case of Mr. Bryan, the greatest dispenser of free talk of any man, barring Col. Roosevelt, in the country. It is true at times he has commercialized his words, but his charities have far exceeded his sales.

Should all St. Louis County join St. Louis, that old, old query, "What county is St. Louis in?" would still bob up every week in every part of the United States.

BRITISH NAVAL PRESTIGE.

Britannia still rules the waves, but with a difference—explains the eminent British naval writer, Fred T. Jane. The best case that this special leader can make out of the record of a year's warfare is a negative one. "An explanation of apparent failure" shows that England has exerted the "silent pressure of sea power" defensively only; not in conquest or aggression.

Mr. Jane reminds the world that the British navy has "saved" England—which emphasizes its loss of world prestige. In the past it has stood for something more than the defensive salvation of the insular realm. Mr. Jane reminds us that the navy protected the transporting of troops to the Continent at the crucial moment of France's peril. And the further item that Germany's heavy fighting craft are bottled in the Kiel canal remains to its credit. To its discredit we perceive a long list of sunken fighting craft.

Nothing decisive, not even a considerable engagement in the way of a test, has occurred. But one big fact of the naval year stands out despite England's exertion of that "silent pressure of sea power": a fact so glaring that no explanations or apologies can possibly obscure it; a momentous result that seems to stand above England's maintenance of the food blockade, and to rise above the fact that the bulk of England's fighting tonnage remains afloat—and that is that German submarine warfare has largely punctured British naval prestige. In the matter of naval prestige alone, Germany has gained what Britain has lost.

Prestige will not decide the war. Prestige not based on actual fighting ability serves an end only in time of peace.

"When the true history of this war comes to be written," declares the English naval authority, "I think it will become clear that the British navy recognized at the outset the ultra-cleverness of the brain which planned the 'submarine blockade.' It acted accordingly, and so the 'submarine blockade' has been a failure."

But as yet the world has heard only of submarine success; the actual defeat of the submarines remains to be shown.

The German 2-cent meal that appeases the most ravenous hunger may be a godsend to Europe, in the hard times after the war.

MOTHER'S RIGHTS IN MISSOURI.

Attention of the Post-Dispatch has been called to a recent law, passed in 1913, amending the "Natural guardianship of Minors" statute, and making the mother of minor children an equal guardian of such children. Under this amended statute the father has no authority, without the mother's consent, to deprive her of their care and custody. And vice versa. Both parents are "natural guardians," with equal rights and duties, and Missouri is in line with other progressive states that have such laws. The Post-Dispatch is glad to call the attention of Missouri mothers to this just law.

"THIS WILL NATURALLY AFFECT THE STOCKS AND BONDS."
—H. W. HULL, General Manager.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
by Clark McAdams

A COUNTRY TOWN.

HERE are the stores that front upon the square, and the unhitched teams that munch upon their hay;
The stir of enterprise is everywhere,
And the busy scene proclaims its Saturday.
Great bearded men are trading to and fro,
Their figures stooped with toil, their faces brown;
The fleeting centuries may come and go,
But here is changelessness—a country town.

HERE in old dreams a city was to stand;
But that fond hope is dead forevermore;
On every prospect is the fertile land,
Stretching its verdure to the townsmen's door.
Thus it has been, and thus it shall be still
When last the sun shall in its course go down,
A while to linger on the sun kissed hill,
This is immutable—a country town.

HERE, too, is genuineness unimpaired
By all the follies that the winds have blown;
Nor human vanity has greatly cared
For all the glories that it might have known.
So it was long ago, and shall remain.
And God knows what shall blow as thistle down
Into the quiet streets and out again;
This is unchangeable—a country town.

HARD RIDING.

GIFFORD PINCHOT, on his return from Germany, said in New York:
"Militarism is riding the German people hard. It's been riding them hard, in fact, for 50 years. Militarism in its treatment of the German people reminds me of Mrs. Peck."
"My dear," said Henry Peck to his wife in timid remonstrance, "you've kept my nose to the grindstone ever since our marriage back in '94."
"I've done more than that," Mrs. Peck grimly answered. "I've made you turn the grindstone, too."

THE NEWS FROM HOGWALLOW.

Washington Hocks, who has been sitting on a stump near the road for the past several days waiting for the mail carrier, got out of patience yesterday morning and returned home.

Raz Barlow is trying to find out how far it is by mail from here to Tickville.

Film Dillard, who has been confined to his bed for the past several weeks, has not been missed a great deal from the business activities around Hogwallow, but he was greatly surprised at the way the vegetables and weeds and other garden products had grown during his absence.

Fletcher Henstap says if Miss Fruzze Allsop ever gets to vote and has anything to do with the election returns, he bets they will be padded.

Hogwallow Kentuckian.

We published on Friday a photograph showing one of the rioters at Bayonne throwing a stone. The photographer who grabbed this bit of realism for the press should be sent to Europe. Our war photography needs him.

We think we have located the moonshine in the Mexican revolution. Carranza wins in the dark of the moon, and Villa wins by moonlight, so to speak. This is one of his good weeks.

AT WOODRIVER.

SOMEWHERE within a few hundred yards of the great Standard Oil Refinery at Woodriver the Lewis and Clark Expedition camped. Presumably that first camp, which was established for the purpose of inuring the men to the hardships of outdoor life while the expedition organized and waited for spring, was at the mouth of Woodriver. At any rate, it was from there that the hunters and adventurers who made up that historic party first bent their backs to the oars in their long battle with the currents of the Missouri river, and it amuses one to speculate upon what the gasoline produced at Woodriver now could have meant to that celebrated trip. It only emphasizes what has been apparent to the philosopher for some time—that we were probably not meant to do any physical work, and are only doing it in our ignorance of getting it done by machinery. Probably no longer or more laborious pull upstream was ever made than that of the Lewis and Clark Expedition up the Missouri. The current normally runs five to eight miles an hour. The boats in which the Expedition ventured the wilderness were not designed by the Herreshoffs, to say the least. So all that work was done in our ignorance of the gasoline engine, and the same trip could be made today without any work. Had Lewis and Clark known about gas engines, all they would have had to do would have been to lounge around on bales and boxes, pointing out Indians, buffaloes, antelopes, or whatever served to distract attention for a while from the game of poker. Nowadays one never sees anybody rowing a boat around Woodriver. Everybody has some sort of a gasoline engine, and all boatmen are fat, good-natured fellows who could go from there to the headwaters of the Missouri without any of the quarreling which characterized the Lewis and Clark Expedition. Thus do we pay for our ignorance; not in one thing, but in all. This is a sad life, my friends. We grope in darkness, and suffer the consequences of not knowing every day of our lives. The Standard Oil Refinery at Woodriver reminds one of it, that is all. If we could not put oil refineries and historical camping spots together once in a while to arrive at the sum of a great human truth, we would be fishermen, too.

SOPHISTICATION.

MAYOR RIDDLE of Atlantic City, responded at a recent dinner to a toast to the summer girl.
"There's a lot of false criticism devoted to the summer girl," he said. "She is made out to be very worldly and sophisticated, but as a matter of fact, the average summer girl is as innocent as a little child."
"But most people would have us believe that that was a typical summer girl to whom a young man said on the beach in the moonlight:
"You're not the first girl I've kissed by any manner of means, you know."
"And at that," she answered, "you've still got a lot to learn."

Unlike the rest of us, Col. Roosevelt does not have to wait for the facts before he says what he thinks. He has already said that the sinking of the Teleanaw was damnable, and maybe it was. We will wait.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

O. W.—Put turtle soup, see Answers June 20, at this office.
MRS. JAY.—Rub wall paper grease spots gently with flannel dipped in spirits of wine.
MRS. R.—Wallpaper cleaner: To 1 qt. flour add about 2 oz. 30-per cent ammonia and enough lukewarm water to make a dough. Wipe paper with this while turning and kneading it as in making dough.
B. B. B.—Mahogany furniture and hardwood trimming can be polished beautifully by rubbing repeatedly with a mixture of linseed oil and turpentine. In the proportion of two of the former to one of the latter. The mixture "feeds" the wood and takes away what one dealer expresses as the "hungry" look wood has when neglected.
C. H. P.—Fruit vinegar: Strain 15 gallons rain water and place in a gallon stone jar or in wine barrel. Then add two gallons pure honey and two gallons fresh chopped fruit and one gallon white or brown sugar and a good piece of vinegar mother and tie a pure white rag over top and in four months it will be ready for table. Use by straining into eight months it will pickle cucumbers. If a red color is desired, burn a little sugar until it's black and drop into the finished product. (We don't know plum wine.)

LAW POINTS.

TOM.—Write Patent Office.
A. B.—We know of no society. Why not make a will appointing some friend to see to that which you desire as to making charge of funeral.
SUBSCRIBER.—No ordinance against putting up barbed wire division fence; the same is not prohibited along sidewalks of the city's public streets.
TENANT.—If rent due is paid, landlord must give tenant a month's written notice to vacate; if not paid, tenant may be sued out at once.
R. H.—Providing the estate has sufficient assets to pay debts and expenses of administration, pay the special bequest you refer to; you need not wait until final settlement to do so.
O. K.—Entering without color of title and paying no taxes, the party inhering your vacant lot with a fence could not claim ownership thereof by any means after 10 years. However, it is best to have an agreement as to the fence, as it may be removed.
TENANT.—Unless the purchaser of property has notice of the six months' advance payment by tenant, he need not recognize the same. Such a contract a tenant should insist be put in shape, so as to permit tenant placing of record in Recorder's office, thereby giving a prospective purchaser due notice.
EMPLOYEE.—If you are employed under contract by the month the employer is obliged to pay you a month's wages in the event he discharges you without just cause before the month ends. It all depends upon the terms of the contract. If you leave of your own accord you break your contract and cannot expect full money pay.
ZEEHOLT.—All of single man's wages, in Illinois, may be garnished; married man's cannot be garnished if he is not paid more than $15 a week. Illinois exemptions: Homestead to value of $1000 exempt; also wearing apparel, books and family pictures and 400 other personal property exempt; select; this applies to head of family. All else is subject to execution. Illinois open account debt is not collectible after 5 years; note lives 10 years.

MISCELLANEOUS.

R. R. R.—Tinfoil, junk shop.
TBAW.—Diamonds traded in 2 to 3 years. Pay if good one, $25 to $50 a week.
RYAN.—Write War Department, Washington, D. C., about your lost discharge.
H. K.—McAlester (Ok.) News-Capital, daily. Find reader. Tribune and Herald are weeklies.
LYSTON.—Write General Land Office, Washington, D. C., for information as to Government land.
ROYALTY.—The British King is a hereditary monarch. His accession is ratified by Parliament.
ALTON.—Gummen executed by electricity at Ossining April 22, 1915. Officials: Whitely Lewis Seldener, Harry Horowitz, Louis Rosenberg.
CLARA.—The Methodist Episcopal Church in Edwardsville, Largest St. Charles, the Jefferson street.
READER.—States make all the legal holidays—each State for itself. That is why the 4th of July is not a national holiday. Congress names no holiday for any State.
GALLAGHER.—U. S. 10 largest cities: New York, 4,778,000; Chicago, 2,152,000; Philadelphia, 1,548,000; St. Louis, 671,000; Boston, 570,000; Cleveland, 568,000; more, 553,000; Pittsburgh, 523,000; Detroit, 465,000; Buffalo, 423,000. (Census of 1910.)
BAUM.—In 1849 Wisconsin had a compulsory educational law and before the middle of the century other places in Germany had followed the example. Now every child in the empire must attend school every school day in the year (about 300 days) from 6 to 14 years.
ANXIOUS TO KNOW.—Mange is caused by mites which burrow in the skin and cause itching, eruption and dryness of hair, which falls out. It is generally caused by using carbolic acid soap as first step toward cure. Dress sores and ulcers with mercurial ointment or with solution of four grains corrosive sublimate to an ounce of water. Occasional bath with mercurial will keep skin of cat or dog in condition and prevent mange and other diseases.
SIDNEY AND H. U.—A true blockade is internationally lawful. "When a Government decides to undertake blockade operation against some part of the enemy coast, it assigns a certain number of warships to take part in the blockade, and instructs the command of these to an officer whose duty it is to insure by this means the effectiveness of the blockade. The commander of the naval force thus formed distributes the ships placed at his disposal according to the configuration of the coast" and the geographical position of the blocked places, and gives each ship instructions as to the part which she is to play, and especially as to the zone intrusted to her surveillance. It is all the sooner of surveillance, together organized in such a manner that the blockade is effective, that forms the basis of action of the blocking force."
W. W. W.—The magnetic poles are not coincident with the geographical poles, nor are they diametrically opposite to each other. Prior to the recent attempt of Amundsen to determine the north magnetic pole, the only other was by Capt. James Ross in June, 1831, who found the dip of the magnetic needle to be 68 deg. 23 min. 3 in. in latitude 70 deg. 3 min. 3 N. and longitude 84 deg. 45 min. 8 W. which is in North William Land, Canada. The result of Amundsen's observations has not yet been published by the Norwegian authorities. The position of the south magnetic pole has been located in Antarctica 71 deg. 23 min. 8 in. and longitude 154 deg. E. by Prof. Edward David and Mr. Douglas Mawson, members of Lieut. Shackleton's expedition to the South Pole, which left New Zealand on Jan. 1, 1912. By reason of the seasonal variation of the magnetic needle, it is believed that the magnetic poles are not stationary, but have a slow motion around the geographical poles. The subject constitutes one of the many as yet unsolved problems in terrestrial physics.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCardell.

Mr. Jarr Teaches Profound Wisdom to a Blushing Bridegroom.

It was toward the end of the summer bride season. Judson, the junior partner, was back from his wedding trip. Mr. Jarr was one of the first to felicitate him on having braved all the perils of the honeymoon. The good wishes of Jenkins, the bookkeeper, and Johnson, the cashier, and all the rest followed.

Judson had asked them to "call up to our little place" at that rather indefinite date, "some day." Then the office friends began to advise him as to how to steer his bark successfully through the seemingly calm and peaceful waters of matrimony.

"You want to start in from the very beginning, being kind, but firm," said Jenkins. "Remember, now is the time to get down to cases on a working agreement that will, through all the rest of your life, leave you a free man—that is, as free as any man who is married can be."

"What would you advise? Be specific," said Judson.

"I am going to be that. You must join a club."

"But I gave up all my clubs," faltered the junior partner. "I thought I'd have no more use for a club after I married."

"You won't," said Mr. Jarr, "and, furthermore, it is doubtful if you will have the money to pay dues."

"Let me explain this to him," interrupted Jenkins. "Judson, you want a club and you want it quick!"

"But I don't want to go to any club, and, furthermore, I don't desire even to pretend I want to join a club. I want to be at home; that's what I married for."

"I thought the same, too," said Jenkins, "but I was advised by an experienced friend. So I took Tuesday night off from the very beginning. Now I am free any Tuesday night."

"But I don't want to adopt a substitute like that. It doesn't seem square."

"You mean you don't want to leave home nights," said Mr. Jenkins. "That's the way I felt, too. The first six months my Tuesday night off was a lonesome horror to me. I was down—bumming and disconsolate. I'd rather, a hundred times, have been home. But after six months the proposition began to draw dividends. Now I even call special meetings of that club at times."

"The club idea doesn't go with my bride," remarked Mr. Jarr.

"You didn't start it in time," said Jenkins and Johnson nodded approval. "When you tried to do it on my advice it was too late."

"Well, I didn't try as hard as I might have," said Mr. Jarr. "But I'll tell you what I told my wife that once a week each man was expected to stay late at the office. My wife couldn't understand why this was so, but I showed her that if the servant had a day off, men working on the whole sale line had to have a night on."

"Oh, that's all right, too," said Jenkins. "That's an extra. But the club scheme works best, Judson. Now, don't backslide. Go out every club night whether you want to or not. If you ever miss one night by saying, 'Oh, I don't think I'll attend the meeting tonight,' you weaken your position. An aggressive woman will exert pressure and make you resign from the club."

"But if it's only an imaginary club your wife will find it out."

"Well," admitted Jenkins, "it isn't wholly an imaginary club; but it is somewhat nebulous. Yet it's a good working arrangement. We call it 'The Sheltering Order of Wok-Wok.'"

"The Sheltering Order of Wok-Wok?" repeated Judson.

"That's its name," said Mr. Jenkins. "Sounds moral and beneficial, doesn't it? It really has no meeting place and no officers, constitution or charter. But every member of the Sheltering Order of Wok-Wok is a soldier of the common good."

"For instance," said Mr. Jenkins, "you are out all night sitting in a little game, say. You tell your wife you were on the sick visiting list for the Sheltering Order of Wok-Wok that night. I drop around the next night and say our sick brother."

Unique.
I WENT to a symphony concert yesterday afternoon. "Did you enjoy it?" "It was the most wonderful experience I ever had. Just think of sitting in the same room with 2000 women, and not one of them saying a word."

Hard Times.
JUST tired of him, eh? The actress nodded. "Well, I wouldn't advise you to sue at this time. The war is crowding everything else off the front pages."

Vice Versa.
JONES made his money in steel, common, didn't he? "Some of it, but most of his fortune is the result of common steel."

Noises of the Night

ELLABELLE MAE DOOLITTLE, "passion" poetess of Pickhuddle, down in Dunkin County, sends in the following weird verse libre. She was inspired one night when she awoke and heard strange creakings from the doors, furniture, etc. The rhyme is called "Noises of the Night, So Gray and Bleak." Here it is:

When I awake at midnight,
And I hear the clock ticking,
Everything seems so weird-like,
And little noises are so tricky.
You think you hear a burglar, perhaps,
Just because the door did creak,
But nothing is to be found behind it,
Noises of the night so gray and bleak!

My sister's child, Teeny Ricketts,
Tried to take a bath in the wash boiler,
She got stuck in it, of course,
And really we had to oil her.
But, getting back to noises of the night,
Never let them frighten you,
There's Rover's leg pounding the floor,
Dear old dog! What can be biting you.

Don't Ever Let Anyone Tell You This as a New One.

SEE that man on the corner? "He's always trying to start something." "Pretty mean disposition, eh?" "Nope. Owns a motor cycle."

Half the Show Gone.

STOP the train!" yelled the excited passenger. "My suit case just fell out of the window." "You can't expect us to stop the Limited to pick up a suit case," said the conductor. "Listen here," pleaded the excited one. "I'm the manager of this musical comedy company in the car ahead, and that suit case contains all the costumes for our chorus."

Piscatrix.

STELLA: Can you fish? Bella: Well, if someone else baits it and catches it and takes it off the hook I can tell the lies.
